TROOPS SENT TO ARREST DESERTERS

G. O. P. Leaders Plan War On "Trend to Socialism" And Federal Ownership

Republican Committeemen Declare for Universal Female Suffrage. Chairman Hays Given Power to Conduct Party's Affairs.

SOUTHERN DOMINATION ALLEGED BY BEECKMAN

Democrats Accused of Extravagance—Negro From Louisiana Seated. Plan to Erect Monument to Roosevelt.

Chicago, January 10.—Declaring for universal female suffrage by constitutional amendment and applauding speeches condemning socialism, bolshevism and government ownership, the republican national committee today conferred on Chairman Will H. Hays, who opened the meeting with prayer, what was taken to be full power to conduct affairs of the party in its efforts to defeat the democrats at the next national election.

Resolutions laudatory of Theodore Roosevelt were adopted as introduced by John T. King, of Connecticutt, and plans were made at the suggestion of Chairman Hays to erect a permanent monument to the decedent by popular subscription.

The democratic national administration was denounced by committeemen for what was termed its tendency to socialism and for placing control of the government departments in the hands of the minority of the south, while the majority of the north paid 90 per cent of the taxes, as worded by Governor Beeckman, of Rhode Island.

Two Women Take Part.

It was declared by Chairman Hays and others that it was too early to consider a candidate for president, but many names were mentioned in the informal talk of committeemen, while a separate meeting of Illinois republicans ade arrangements to persuade Governor Frank O. Lowden to an...ce himself as a candidate.

Two women took part in the deliberations as holders of proxies, and their assistance was sought in all the doings of the meeting.

Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Illinois, chairman of the woman's executive committee, read a long report outlining plans for woman's organizations in every state and for the active participation of women in the national affairs of the party.

Governor Beeckman, of Rhode Island, referred to the recent victory of the republicans in the congressional elections and said that the people of the north were tired of paying 90 per cent of the taxes and having it expended by the minority of the south, which dominated the democratic national administration.

Governor Burnquist, of Minnesota, denounced Bolshevism, anarchy and socialism, and said the hope of the country for the future was in the election of a republican president. He spoke of the activity of the nonpartisan league in the northwest, and said the sympathy of the democratic party had been with that organization.

Criticises "Extravagance."

Governor Harding, of Iowa, criticised the democratic national administration for its extravagance and inefficiency and referred to W. G. McAdoo, federal director of railroads, as "the crown prince."

"This is too big and too great a country to be ruled by one corner of it," said Governor Harding. "I hope the republican congress will see that the railroads are returned to their owners without delay."

Congressman Royal Johnson, of South Dakota, who appeared in the uniform of an army officer, and others made similar addresses.

The committee gave Chairman Hays a vote of confidence and used him to name an executive and other committees at his discretion.

The committee settled a contest over the national committeeship in Louisiana, which has been pending since the last republican national convention in 1916, by seating Emil Kuntz, a negro. F. C. Labit was the unsuccessful contestant. Both factions agreed to abide by the decision of the committee.

The character of the memorial to be erected to Roosevelt will be decided by a special committee of which W. B. Thompson, of Yonkers, N. Y., is chairman. The other members of the committee will be named by Chairman Hays later.

"We have no idea at present just what the memorial will be or how much it will cost," said Chairman Hays.

In suggesting the idea to the committee, Chairman Hays said:

"I suggest for your consideration the idea that this committee sponsor a movement for the development of a permanent memorial to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt. Just what the nature of this might be or the extent to which it might be carried is a matter for careful consideration, but it cannot be too substantial or of an extent too great

OVER 8 CARLOADS OF SOLDIER MAIL NOT DELIVERED

Millions of Letters Addressed to Men Overseas Will Be Sent to Dead Letter Office, Asserts Praeger.

BLAMES SITUATION ON WAR DEPARTMENT

Caused by Lack of Index System, He Says, Which Is Also Responsible for Delay in Sending Out Allotments.

Washington, January 10.—From eight to ten carloads of mail for American soldiers are undelivered in France, Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger told the senate postoffice committee today, and "thousands and probably millions" of letters addressed to the men overseas will arrive in New York soon to be sent to the dead letter office, where an attempt will be made to return them to the writers.

Blame for the failure to deliver this mail was placed on the war department by Mr. Praeger, who again explained that the army authorities handle all soldiers' mail in France, the postoffice department delivering outgoing mail at Hoboken and receiving returning mail at the French ports.

Need Experienced Clerks.

Mr. Praeger said one way to improve conditions overseas would be to send a force of experienced mail clerks to France to deliver the mail to the soldiers.

Members of the committee sought to ascertain whether there was any delay at French ports in handling mail coming to this country.

"The trouble does not lie at the ports," declared Mr. Praeger. "It lies in the interior. The mail gets tied up somewhere between army headquarters, censors and the ports."

Mr. Praeger told the committee one reason for the confusion in the delivery of mail to soldiers was the failure of the war department to keep up its index system. This same cause, he declared, also was responsible for the department's delay in sending out allotments to soldiers and in reporting casualties.

Another source of delay in delivering mail promptly, he added, was the transferring of units of troops from one point to another, but he said this should cause only a few days' delay as the mail could readily be forwarded to the moving troops.

Asking what facilities the war department has for handling mail, Mr. Praeger said about fifty experienced mail clerks were sent by that department overseas, while the remainder of the necessary force for this work was made up of inexperienced men.

$3,000,000 for Aerial Mail.

The second assistant postmaster general appeared before the committee to urge appropriation of $3,000,000 for the maintenance and development of the aerial mail service. He predicted a great future for this service and declared extensive plans for developing aerial mail facilities are being made by France, England and Canada, the latter now planning the establishment of an airplane route connecting Montreal with Boston.

Extension of the present air mail service between Washington and New York so as to connect Boston with Atlanta is planned, Mr. Praeger said. In addition it is also proposed to establish routes connecting New York and Omaha, Neb., via Chicago, and Boston with Detroit, through Albany and Buffalo. Establishment of these routes, he said, would cost $2,034,000, while he estimated the revenues would total $2,050,125.

Replying to questions of senators, Mr. Praeger said, relative to the cost of operating the air mail service between Washington and New York during the last six months was $75,165, while the revenues totalled $60,658.

FLYING CADET KILLED BY COLLISION IN AIR

Fort Worth, Texas, January 10.—Flying Cadet Henry Martin Schleiper, of Pearl, Ill., was killed here today when he collided in midair with Cadet Charles T. Carl. Carl was unhurt.

Schleiper had only two and one-half miles more to fly before he would have received his commission and discharge.

WILSON REPORTED AS NOT IN FAVOR OF ITALY'S CLAIM

Believed His Indorsement Will Not Extend to Control of Adriatic or Any Infringement of Jugo-Slav Aspirations.

BALFOUR AND PREMIER WILL ARRIVE SUNDAY

Possible There May Be Meetings of Peace Conference Before End of Week.

Paris, January 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Wilson, it is said, has virtually made up his mind how far he will support Italy's claims at the peace table and informed Premier Orlando of his decision, but that it is probable his ideas will not be made known publicly until the peace delegates have been advised of them.

It is asserted by persons close to the president that he favors only partial indorsement of Italy's ambitions. The expectation has been expressed that President Wilson is agreeable to meeting the principal features of Italy's claim to territory undeniably Italian and essential to safeguard her sovereignty and at the same time to recognize the territorial aspirations of the Jugo-Slavs.

Control of Adriatic.

It is anticipated that the president's leanings in favor of Italy do not go so far as to warrant the suggestion that he is in favor of giving Italy control of the Adriatic, but that by a project of internationalization he is willing to satisfy the Italians that there will be no military threat to the east of them, according to persons supposed to be well informed on the subject.

The president is said to realize that the Italians are depending almost solely on the United States for support, but that he has felt from the first that he could not indorse their claims in full, though he is said to entertain the warmest sympathy for Italy.

President Wilson before he returns to the United States will

THREE BUILDINGS BURN AT G. M. C.

Two Dormitories and Laboratory Destroyed in Milledgeville Fire—Loss $50,000—Old Capitol Is Saved.

Milledgeville, Ga., January 10.—Fire tonight destroyed the two barracks buildings of the Georgia Military college and the laboratory, a loss of $50,000 on buildings alone.

The old state capitol, used for class work, located a hundred yards away, was saved.

Four hundred students from Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee, were seated in the dining room when the flames were first discovered at 7 p. m., on the second floor of one of the new buildings. The flames gained great headway before firemen reached the scene and the students who occupied quarters on the second and third floors lost everything that they had.

The buildings were located on a twenty-acre plot of land.

J. H. Marshburn, is president of the college and Major C. M. Allen, a regular army officer, is commandant.

Citizens of Milledgeville threw open their homes tonight to shelter the students.

Requests were sent tonight to the war department and to the commanding officer at Camp Wheeler for the immediate use of tents and other equipment, for the students of the college. If these are obtained the tents will be pitched on the twenty-acre plot occupied by Georgia Military college.

A thousand girls at Georgia Normal and Industrial college will serve breakfast to the cadets in the morning.

Major Bell says the building will be replaced better than ever. Work will not be interrupted, it is asserted.

Latest estimates on the loss are placed at $75,000.

WILSON PLAYS 9 HOLES AROUND SOGGY COURSE

Paris, January 10.—Although it was cold today and the sky was overcast, President and Mrs. Wilson went out unaccompanied to St. Cloud this afternoon. The president played nine holes of golf on a soggy course.

Luxemburg Crowds Demand Abdication Of Grand Duchess

Metz, January 10.—A large crowd paraded before the grand ducal palal in Luxemburg today, requesting the abdication of the grand duchess and the proclamation of a republic.

A committee on public safety has been appointed and quiet is being maintained everywhere in Luxemburg.

The Paris Matin, on January 6, reported that Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide, of Luxemburg, had decided to leave her country owing to the political situation there, which was said to have become unfavorable for her. During last November it was reported her abdication would be demanded by the parliament and the people. The grand duchess is 24 years old and has been the ruler of Luxemburg since June, 1912.

SUIT AGAINST BURLESON LOST

Judge Hand Decides Case on Merits, Passing Over Question of Jurisdiction. Appeal Will Be Taken.

New York, January 10.—The injunction suit brought by the Commercial Cable company and the Commercial Pacific Cable company to restrain Postmaster General Burleson from taking over for the government their respective cable lines and merging them with lines controlled by the Western Union Telegraph company was dismissed today by Federal Judge Learned Hand. Counsel for the companies announced that an appeal would be taken.

Judge Hand decided the case on its merits, passing without decision the jurisdictional questions raised by the United States district attorney, who contended that the suit could not be maintained on the grounds that it was directed against the United States and in effect against the president.

Both Claims Rejected.

Taking up the claims of plaintiffs that the seizure of the cable lines on November 16, five days after the signing of the armistice, was not justified by the joint resolution of July 16, 1918, authorizing the president to seize cables when he deemed it "necessary for the national security and defense," and that the resolution itself was not a sufficient warrant for the seizure, Judge Hand decided both claims adversely.

Commenting on the contention of counsel for the cable companies that the "necessity" for seizure within the meaning of the joint resolution had terminated with the signing of the armistice, Judge Hand said:

"The resolution expressly extends the powers until peace has been declared. Had they (congress) intended that a suspension of hostilities should terminate the right, they would not have said precisely the contrary."

The right of congress to authorize such a seizure by the president was justified by Judge Hand on the ground that, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces of the nation, the president was permitted by the constitution to hold either money or property to be used for the national defense.

Touching on the alleged inade-

League of Nations Conferences Here On February 27-28

New York, January 10.—Plans for a series of nine consecutive "congresses" in behalf of a league of nations, to be held in New York, Boston, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, Oregon, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Kansas City and Atlanta, beginning February 5 and ending on February 28, were announced here today by the League to Enforce Peace.

Former President Taft will preside at each rally, and will take with him on his tour of the country a group of speakers, including James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; Henry Van Dyke, former minister to The Netherlands; President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard university; Frank P. Walsh, formerly joint chairman of the National War Labor board; Mrs. Philip North Moore, president of the National Council of Defense, and Rabbi Wise, of the Free synagogue, New York. Many other noted speakers will participate.

The first meeting will be held here on February 5 and 6. The other dates follow:

Boston, February 7 and 8; Chicago, 10 and 11; Minneapolis, 12 and 13; Portland, Ore., 16 and 17; San Francisco, 19 and 20; Salt Lake City, 21 and 22; Kansas City, 24 and 25, and Atlanta, 27 and 28.

Each "congress" will adopt resolutions calling for the formation at the peace conference of "a practical, business-like league of nations," and copies of the resolutions will be sent to Versailles and to the United States senate.

Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said last night that he had not been informed of the plans to hold a league of nations meeting here. The Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies, however, it is understood, will co-operate in any movement to this end.

OWNERS AND MEN REFUSE TO YIELD IN PORT STRIKE

Both Declare for Finish Fight, and There Seems to Be Little Hope for Early Settlement.

MEN ON FIRE BOATS ARE ALSO CALLED OUT

No Actual Food Shortage in New York, But Situation Presents Menacing Possibilities.

New York, January 10.—No hope of an early settlement of the strike which has paralyzed the port of New York for two days was apparent tonight. Leaders of the 16,000 workers on tugs, lighters and ferryboats declared emphatically that they were prepared for a finish fight. Their employers, members of the New York Boat Owners' association, were equally emphatic in their assertions that they never would yield to the demand for an eight-hour day.

Baker Does Not Act.

The visit to the city late today of Secretary of War Baker led to the hope that his influence might result in an adjustment, but the hope was short-lived. When the secretary left tonight for Ottawa,—where he will speak tomorrow night, he had given no intimation that the war department would take a hand in the controversy. On the contrary, he said the strike had not resulted in serious embarrassment to the department. Returning troops were being debarked without delay, he stated.

The most serious development of the day was the decision of the strike committee to revoke all exemptions previously made. This action called out men employed on fireboats and those running to islands on which are located municipal, charitable and reform institutions. The action was taken after an emergency ferryboat service had been established with Staten Island by employes of the police department.

Guilty of Misdemeanor.

After Mayor Hylan had been informed that the strikers had withdrawn their exemptions he sent a letter to District Attorney Swann

BRITISH CABINET IS MADE PUBLIC

Will Be Headed by Lloyd-George as Premier and First Lord of the Treasury.

London, January 10.—The new cabinet of Premier Lloyd-George was announced tonight. It presents few surprises. The question the British newspapers are asking is whether Mr. Lloyd-George will rule his cabinet, or whether his conservative advisers will dominate him.

The majority of the members of the cabinet in high places are conservatives, notably Andrew Bonar Law, Earl Curzon, Arthur J. Balfour and Viscount Milner. Only four years ago their party regarded Mr. Lloyd-George as the conservatives today regard the Bolsheviki.

The premier is pledged by his campaigning speeches to a sweeping program of liberal reforms, particularly the giving of land and houses to working men and discharged soldiers. His principal advisers are regarded as representatives of the land-owning interests, who, following tradition, would place barriers in the way of such reforms.

Indian Is Member.

The ministers without portfolios, George Nicoll Barnes and Sir Eric Geddes, have important duties for which there are no cabinet places. Mr. Barnes will represent labor at the Paris peace congress, while Sir Eric has undertaken the management of demobilization.

One innovation is the selection for the first time of an Indian as a member of the government, Sir S. H Sinha having the place of undersecretary for India.

Another is the appointment of Cecil Bishopp Hermsworth, brother of Lord Northcliffe, to succeed Lord Robert Cecil as under-secretary for foreign affairs.

The new cabinet will be headed by David Lloyd-George as premier and first lord of the treasury, according to an official statement issued tonight. The other members of the government will be:

List of Members.

Lord Privy Seal and Leader of the House of Commons—Andrew Bonar Law.

President of the Council and Leader in the House of Lords—Earl Curson, of Kedleeston.

BOLSHEVIK RIOTS RAGE IN ARGENTINA

Over 100 People Killed During Thursday's Clash Between Strikers and Troops of Government.

Buenos Aires, January 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—At 11 o'clock tonight battles between strikers and police were raging in all parts of the city. There was a particularly sharp conflict in front of the postoffice. If the fighting spreads in this district it probably will be necessary to close the cable office.

Several attempts were made tonight to capture the first district police station, one block from the American consulate. It is impossible at this time to make any calculation of the number of casualties.

General Dellepiane, commander of the forces opposing the strikers, has assumed a military distatorship and has taken over all the forces of the government. This action, it was explained, in no wise constitutes a measure unfriendly to President Irigoyen.

Several Are Killed.

Several persons were killed in clashes between strikers and government forces today, and the government, in view of the increasing gravity of the situation, decided to adopt the most severe measures to bring about normal conditions. The soldiers and police were instructed to shoot whenever necessary and to put down outbreaks of violence regardless of the cost in blood.

The regional federation has ordered that the general strike be continued indefinitely and has instructed its members to oppose all acts of aggression by the government forces under the command of Gen. Dellepiane, who has about 4,000 men.

To supplement the troops and police, leaders of the radical party today organized a white guard of 10,000, and tonight marines and sailors from the cruiser Gafibaldi disembarked to aid in patrolling the city.

The strikers began the day by shooting into every business house which attempted to open and after the shops had closed devoted their energies to burning privately owned automobiles. A cavalry patrol this afternoon had a pitched battle with a group of Russians who had sacked a gun shop. Cavalry has taken over the municipal slaughter house to insure a proper distribution of meat. This the strikers had tried to prevent.

Not a Train Running.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the railways announced that not a train was running in the republic. The only newpaper permitted to circulate today was La Vanguardia, the socialist organ, other newspapers being burned by the strikers as fast as they appeared. The newspaper offices are guarded by national police. Police reports indicate that more than 100 persons were killed in the affrays of yesterday and last night.

The chief of police this afternoon placarded the city, asking the citizens to remain calm and declaring that the forces now in the capital would be able to bring about normal conditions within a short time. He also issued a decree ordering women to remain off the streets as the police were unable to guarantee them protection.

The newspapers say the strike is the outcome of a bolshevik revolutionary movement by foreign agitators, who rush through the streets in taxicabs bearing red flags. These agitators bear no resemblance to the Spaniards, Italians or Argentineans, who compose the bulk of the laboring class. The police make no attempt to halt the speeding agitators or to compel a removal of the red flags.

Famous as one of the world's most beautiful cities, Buenos Aires in the past twenty-four hours has assumed the appearance of a city stricken with some terrible pestilence.

The streets are littered with the wreckage of vehicles, garbage and paper. Corrugated steel shutters cover the windows of the business houses, all of which are closed. Sentinels with rifles over their shoulders stand at the street crossings and the national mounted police ride through the streets with their rifles slung on their saddle pommels and with full cartridge belts.

JAILED SINN FEINERS CREATE DISTURBANCE

Dublin, January 10.—Serious disturbances have taken place at Mount Joy prison, where a number of Sinn Feiners have been imprisoned as ordinary prisoners, while claiming treatment as political offenders. The prisoners are reported to have broken the windows and damaged the cells.

Dublin, January 10.—A constituent assembly, the date of which has not yet been fixed, will determine the terms of a constitution for Ireland. Sinn Fein plans for the assembly are delayed because thirty-four of those recently elected to the British parliament are in jail.

The Sinn Feiners are confining their activities at present to securing the release of these members and many meetings are being held throughout Ireland demanding that the imprisoned ones be set free. It is rumored the government soon will release them.

MANY ACCIDENTS KEEPING POLICE AND GRADY BUSY

Automobiles, Motorcycles, Motor Trucks and Trolley Cars Figure in Reports Made on Friday.

"DEAD MAN'S CURVE" SCENE OF ONE CRASH

Civilian, Who Was Driving Government Car, Said to Have Continued on Way Without Stopping to Investigate.

Following the large number of accidents of the past few days, which have kept the police and Grady hospital officials busy, Friday proved another day of mishaps. In the list of accidents reported at police station Friday night, automobiles, motor trucks, motorcycles and street cars figured.

HIT BY MOTORCYCLE, WOMAN IS INJURED.

Struck by a negro on a speeding motorcycle, who pressed full throttle and disappeared, Mrs. J. N. Harper, of 1106 Peachtree street, was badly bruised last night.

She had stepped from a trolley car at Peachtree and Sixteenth street, when, as she reported the accident to the police, "something whizzed by and struck her." That was all she remembered.

Eye-witnesses say she was bowled over by a negro on a motorcycle, who increased his speed and continued out Peachtree street. The negro was said to have had on an overseas cap, although eye-witnesses were unable to determine if he wore a uniform.

GORDON HURT IN COLLISION.

After a collision with a Camp Gordon government automobile at "Dead Man's Curve" on Peachtree road, R. B. Hiosisowtz, of 138 Capitol avenue, drove his car at a fast pace to Grady hospital last night at 11 o'clock with the single victim of the accident, M. Gordon, of 40 Piedmont avenue.

Gordon was badly cut about the face and body, having been thrown into the shattered windshield. His condition, although serious, is not

SHIPPERS OPPOSE RAIL SECRETARY

Do Not Favor Federal Incorporation — Give Outline of Proposition to Be Presented to the Senate Committee.

Washington, January 10.—Attitude of shippers' interests, railroad securities owners, and state commissions toward railroad legislation became known in part here today, in advance of their presentation by representatives of the various interests to the senate interstate commerce committee next week.

The shippers oppose establishment of a secretary of transportation, and federal incorporation of railroad companies, as advocated by railway executives, and propose the following:

Rates sufficiently liberal to guarantee proper maintenance of railways and ample returns to security holders; government regulation by the interstate commerce commission, maintenance of the functions of the state commissions; common use of terminals and other facilities; co-operation among railways to promote efficiency of service, but with pooling and unification agreements subject strictly to the interstate commerce commission, and restoration of the roads to private ownership as soon as remedial legislation has been enacted.

Plan of Security Owners.

Railroad security owners oppose the five-year extension of government control, and urge return of the roads to private management after enactment of legislation paving the way for partial unification. They are opposed also to the executives' plans for creating a secretary of transportation and for federal incorporation of railroads.

Among the proposals of the state railroad commissions are that state governments should retain their authority over intra-state rates and regulations, that regional rate commissions should be created to assist the interstate commerce commission, and that the federal commission and state commissions co-operate in all matters of railway regulation. They oppose the plan for a secretary of transportation and federal incorporation and insist that the so-called "twilight zone" of authority between federal and state governments does not truly exist.

The proposed legislative programs of these interests will be presented to the senate committee next week. Shippers will be represented by the National Industrial Traffic league and by Clifford Thorne, a shippers' attorney; security holders by the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, for which S. Davies Warfield, the president, probably will appear, and the state commissions by Charles E. Elmquist, president of the National Association of Railway and Utility Commissioners.

GORDON SOLDIERS WILL LEAVE TODAY FOR UNION COUNTY

Government Will Make Every Attempt to Arrest the Assailants of Deputy Marshal Dixon and to Round-Up Some 100 Deserters.

PICKED MEN COMPOSE MILITARY EXPEDITION

Col. Herman Glade Will Be in Command of Force. Deserters Are Reported to Be Making Their Way Towards the Tennessee Line.

Following a conference between Major Joel B. Mallet, selective service officer of Georgia, and Major General George Cameron, commanding officer at Camp Gordon, held Friday afternoon at the camp, at the request of Governor Hugh Dorsey, who had been appealed to by the authorities in Union county for assistance in an attempt to round up George Crawley, a deserter from Camp Gordon, and about one hundred other deserters, a military expedition will leave this morning at 7 o'clock on a special train for Culberson, S. C., at 7 o'clock, from which point they will go to the scene of the trouble.

The demand for this expedition follows the encounter Thursday in Union county between Crawley and other members of his family and federal and state authorities, who had attempted to arrest him, in which Deputy Marshal Ben F. Dixon was shot and probably fatally wounded. The shooting took place seven miles from Blairsville and twenty-five miles from the nearest railroad.

Immediately after the shooting the local exemption board appealed to Major Mallet to send assistance, representing the situation as serious. United States Commissioner W. E. Candler, of Blairsville, also asked for additional assistance from Deputy Marshal Robert Ramspeck. The marshal's office immediately dispatched a small force to Blairsville.

ANOTHER APPEAL.

Another appeal for assistance was sent by local authorities to Governor Dorsey Friday and he gave Major Mallet authority to put the matter before the authorities at Camp Gordon and ask for government assistance in arresting George Crawley and a number of other men in that section who either failed to register under the selective service law or deserted from Camp Gordon after they were drafted.

After the conference between General Cameron and Major Mallet, it was announced that a military force would be sent Saturday morning at 7 o'clock to Culberson, S. C., and would work from there to join the posse sent by the United States marshal's office.

Colonel Herman Glade, of the 45th infantry, will be in command of the expedition, which will be composed of picked men, it was announced by officials at Camp Gordon Friday night.

These men are regulars and have been selected for their fitness to be members of this expedition. The deserters are reported to be making their way toward the Tennessee line.

The largest Order of Merit in the world is the French Legion of Honor, which has a trifle over 500,000 members.

CRAWLEY DESERTED.

George Crawley deserted from Camp Gordon in July, the authorities state, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest since that time. He was one of many men who deserted in the summer and returned to their homes in the mountains of north Georgia and Tennessee. Several returned to the camp in response to appeals made by Deputy Marshal Howard Thompson, but Crawley refused to give himself up. He ahs remained hidden in the mountains and it was only a day or two ago that information as to his whereabouts was secured.

In putting the situation before the authorities at Camp Gordon, Governor Dorsey stated that he had expected to make an attempt at an early date to apprehend the deserters that had been reported to the state department, and that he had expected to ask the aid of the federal authorities in rounding them up.

He further stated that the wounding of Deputy Dixon while attempting to arrest one of the deserters and the appeals of the local authorities precipitated his request for federal assistance in Union county.

$100 REWARD OFFERED.

The district attorney has announced a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest of the person who shot Deputy Marshal Dixon when he was attempting to arrest George Crawley.

The marshal and the internal revenue agent, who sent four officers to Union county to assist in the pursuit of the fugitive and the party with whom he is hiding, dispatched additional aid in the person of several other deputies Friday. They will reach Blairsville Saturday.

asking him to bring the situation to the attention of the grand jury. The mayor declared that if employes on fireboats and those operated by the departments of charities and corrections go on strike they will violate their public duty and be guilty of a misdemeanor. The same charge could be preferred, he said, against the strike leaders.

There was no actual shortage today of either food or coal because of the strike, but it was realized that the situation presents menacing possibilities.

After a meeting of the boat owners at the maritime exchange it was announced that they were prepared to offer their men an average increase of approximately 20 per cent. Under this scale, captains of the largest tugboats would receive $190 a month, engineers $170, mates $160 and second engineers $150. They insisted, however, that working conditions should continue until further notice as fixed last July by the department of labor, department of commerce and the United States shipping board.

WILSON REPORTED NOT IN FAVOR ITALY'S CLAIM

reach an agreement with entente representatives as to certain fundamental questions, according to The Gaulois. These questions concern the new boundary between France and Germany, indemnities and reparations and Balkan and Near Eastern matters.

Premier Lloyd-George will reach Paris Saturday night, it was announced today, and Foreign Secretary Balfour will arrive Sunday morning.

General Conferences.

General conferences among the allied statesmen assembled here will be held next wek and possibly there may be a meeting of the peace conference itself before the week's end.

President Wilson today was in confrence with the other members of the American mission. Especial attention is being given the Russian situation in peace conference circles here and a commission to go to Russia is being considered. It would examine the entire political economic and military situation.

After nearly a month of waiting and preparation, conversations which will lay the foundation of the actual peace congress are about to start. American delegates feel that a great deal of progress might have been made before now if a full representation of the nations allied against Germany had arrived promptly.

To Await Britons.

Suggestions have been made that the French and American delegates go ahead while awaiting the arrival of the British plenipotentiaries, who are now expected Saturday. President Wilson, however, vetoed that plan, holding that, inasmuch as there already has been so long a delay it would be best to wait a little longer to secure the participation of the British.

As many of the principal questions to be thrashed out in preliminary conferences concern most intimately the United States, Great Britain and France, there is some hope of fair headway being made while awaiting the official announcement of the full Italian delegation and the arrival of the Japanese representatives. The Belgians will arrive next week, but, of course, they are in the status of minor belligerents.

The first few conferences between the Americans, French and British probably will develop just how much progress may be expected before President Wilson goes home next month. It is settled that when he reaches America one of his first acts will be to address congress and give a report on what has been accomplished. Some trained diplomats among the Americans here are agreed that the most Mr. Wilson can hope to report will probably be a general undertaking of the widest sort upon a set of principles which must be left to be applied by the peace congress.

Mr. Wilson hopes to be able to do more, but unless something unexpected happens, it seems probable physical conditions alone will prevent, the accomplishment of more during the remaining six weeks of his stay.

Organization Program.

Each of the bodies of peace commissioners will necessarily go through an organization process. This work has taken the Americans a month, and even now they are only partially ready. The French, of course, have their organization on the spot. The British have brought over from England a highly developed machine which is virtually ready to function. The Japanese will have to organize after reaching here, as will the Belgians and other minor belligerents.

These very essential preliminaries will not necessarily delay the informal conversation, but they will, in a measure, delay the working of "group plan" conferences, by which the principal belligerents expect to thresh out points with interested neutrals, non-belligerents or minor nations engaged in the war and reduce their results to memoranda which are to go the peace congress for inclurion in the final settlement.

The Chinese press reports the flotation of a tramway company to operate at Pootung. The capital of the company is said to be $10,000,000 Mexican (approximately $8,700,000), and the venture is being floated under the auspices of an Anhui millionaire.

Death From Freezing, Coroner's Jury Verdict Over Body of Unknown

Clayton, Ga., January 10.—(Special.)—The coroner has just returned from Tallulah district, this county, where he held an inquest over the body of a man found there on Dick creek, supposed to have been dead two weeks.

A man named Eller told the coroner's jury that on December 27, a man of his description had called to spend the night with him, but was not accommodated and, in an effort to get to his neighbors, had waded the creek and was presumed to have frozen to death on the bank of the creek.

The verdict of the jury was that he came to his death from unknown causes, presumably that he froze to death.

LUDENDORFF ALLOWED SHORT STAY IN SWEDEN

Stockholm, January 10.—General Ludendorff, former quartermaster general of the German armies, has applied to the Swedish government for formal permission for himself and his wife to stay a short time in Sweden. The application has been granted for one month.

Soon after the collapse of the Hohenzollern dynasty in Germany it was reported that General Ludendorff had fled to Sweden. A dispatch earlier in the week said that he was living on a farm in Sweden.

LAST HONORS PAID COL. R. J. LOWRY

After Simple But Impressive Services at the First Presbyterian Church, Banker Rests at West View Cemetery.

After services of beauty and dignity, impressive in their simplicity, and with an expression of love and wide friendship exhibited by a munificence of floral tributes which has seldom, if ever, been equaled in Atlanta, Colonel Robert J. Lowry, who for more than half a century was one of the city's best-loved and most influential citizens, was laid to rest in West View cemetery yesterday afternoon.

The last services were conducted by Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the Sunday school room of the new building, which is only partially completed, and the space available was taxed to capacity by the large number of friends and admirers who came to do homage to a man who was universally loved and respected by the community in which he lived.

Many Floral Tributes.

In addition to the presence of many men and women of the city who came to pay a last tribute to so distinguished a citizen, the mass of flowers which in many beautiful forms decorated the altar and baiconies spoke eloquently of the high esteem in which Colonel Lowry was held. These came not only from Atlantans, but from acquaintances all over the south and the United States, for Atlanta's pioneer banker was a national figure. There was an abundance of flowers of every kind, but there was a preponderance of red roses and other red flowers, in affectionate memory of the color which he always declared his favorite.

Besides the pallbearers, made up of his closest friends during life, there were three honorary escorts, the directors of the Lowry National bank, with other prominent citizens who were intimately associated with Colonel Lowry, officers from the banks of Atlanta, representing the Atlanta Clearing House association, and the trustees of the Grady hospital.

The ceremony itself was simple, but partook of a dignity which made it eminently fitting for a man of achievement, who accepted the honors of his career modestly. After the casket, covered with orchids and fern, had been brought in, Dr. Lyons read that tenderest of all the Psalms, the twenty-third, which fell like a benediction on the hushed assembly.

Ceremonies Are Short.

This impressive feature seemed the keynote of the afternoon, for the quiet spirit of faith pervaded the short ceremonies. The selections of the choir, specially formed for the occasion, were those two strongest hymns that church people know, "Lead Thou Me On" and "Abide With Me," with "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," sung softly as the ceremonies ended.

Dr. Lyons spoke of men like Colonel Lowry "constituting an aristocracy of vision which is attractive because it has ever been unconscious of itself. They are a fraternity of clear heads and big hearts, whose password is courage and whose grip is fraternity."

Linking the departed citizen with those whose fellowship leaves us a heritage in their fruitful lives, Dr. Lyons said, "We have no controversy with the providence which gives us noble men, which inspires them to lives of industry and unselfishness, and which, having lengthened their days to three score years and ten, and more, calls them home."

At the cemetery the services were elaborate only in the significance of the silent offerings and the participation of a large group of friends and relatives.

Old Friends Pallbearers.

Leading the pallbearers were Judge William T. Newman and Captain James W. English, the two friends of longest standing of Colonel Lowry, and since his death the only two remaining members of the "Old Guard." The three friends, together with Samuel M. Inman, who died four years ago, were referred to by Dr. Lyons in his brief address at the church as a "quartet of loyal and loving and manly friends," who "have set a standard of devotion rarely approached and never surpassed by any." All four were trustees of the First Presbyterian church, offices still held by the distinguished two remaining.

L. H. Beck was another of the pallbearers who shared the honors of charter membership with Colonel Lowry. He is now the only surviving resident who belonged to Atlanta's first civic and commercial organization, which bore the name of the board of trade, and was organized in 1869.

The others who served as pallbearers were Joseph Thompson, Edward Schaefer, H. Warner Martin, E. A. Bancker, Jr., Henry W. Davis and Henry Purtell.

Those in the honorary escort of citizens, including the directors of the banking institution founded by Colonel Lowry were:

John E. Murphy, E. P. McBurney, Mell R. Wilkinson, J. H. Nunnally, Thomas L. Avery, Frederic J. Paxon, Thomas K. Glenn, Wilmer L. Moore, Frank M. Inman, Charles T. Nunnally, Frank Adair, W. R. Prescott, E. T. Lamb, Ernest Woodruff, E. M. Williams, Asa G. Candler, Frank E. Block, Darwin G. Jones, Clark Howell, Thomas C. Erwin, William J. Davis.

Banks Pay Tribute.

The highest mark of respect possible was paid by the Atlanta Clearing House association, two senior officers from the banks of the city attending the funeral as representatives of this body. The following men composed the escort:

Robert F. Maddox, George R. Donovan, Captain James W. English, John K. Ottley, Henry W. Davis, H. Warner Martin, Frank Hawkins, Thomas C. Erwin, Asa G. Candler, A. P. Coles, W. J. Bialock and A. B. Simms.

The trustees of Grady hospital, of whom Colonel Lowry had been chairman since the founding of the institution, attended the funeral in a body, thus showing their appreciation of the faithful efforts of their lost member in behalf of the hospital through the long span of years which have brought it from a place of emergency aid to an indispensable asset of Atlanta.

But there were others present beside the leaders in the various forms of the city's activities. Those who witnessed the entrance of the personal servants of the Lowry household into the church directly behind the members of the immediate family felt that their presence was a tribute to the broad generosity and kindly impulses of the great financier.

Dr. Lyons' Tribute.

The force of Colonel Lowry's personal life was the theme of the few but appropriate remarks made by Dr. Lyons, in referring to the loss which has been sustained by the city. He said:

"Atlanta is young enough to have some of its founders and builders with us still, and we remember with affectionate pride such of them as rest from their labors.

"They constitute an aristocracy of vision and industry, which is attractive because it has ever been unconscious of itself.

"They are a fraternity of clear heads and big hearts, whose password is courage, and whose grip is fraternity.

"They pass on, but they do not really leave us, for they live in every worthy enterprise; they are present in every uplifting movement; they created the 'Atlanta Spirit,' and they bequeath it as a peculiar and priceless heritage to all who follow in their train.

"We are tempted to feel that the going from us of a leader, of a splendid friend, of a constructive citizen, is like silencing a note in a musical instrument, and that life sinks into melancholy strains or falls into utter discord. On the contrary, it is lifted into nobler tones as these finished lives take their place in the permanent ideals of our city.

"We are becoming opulent with our classics of noble men who have wrought faithfully. As each goes on he leaves a heartening illustration of business enterprises, or princely liberality, of personal integrity, of beautiful friendship; and our duties are easier, and our city is better because they have lived with us and for us.

"Of this larger number of city fathers and builders a small group of devoted friends for over half a century have been going in and out in this community in the spirits of David and Jonathan, their souls knit to each other in a fidelity and devotion equal to the love of women.

"This quartet of loyal and loving and manly friends have set a standard of devotion rarely approached and never surpassed by any. Just four years ago one of the four was called, and today another goes on—a loyal friend, a generous and gracious host, a city builder, a man with the big and generous heart and the modest but bountiful hands. While we miss their genial and kindly presence, we rejoice in our fellowship with them in our heritage of their fruitful lives; and we have no controversy with the Providence, which gives us noble men, which inspires them to lives of industry and usefulness, and which, having lengthened their days to three-score years and ten, and more, calls them home.

"Instead of complaint or rebellion, we thankfully say, 'The Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord!'"

The members of the choir whose part added much to the service were Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, soprano; Mrs. John M. Cooper, alto; Harry Smith, tenor, and Edwrad Barnes, base. Mrs. Charles Chalmers was the accompanist.

Banning's Fight in Court For Liberty Closes Today

Owing to Length of Trial and Important Issues Involved, Judge Newman's Decision Is Not Expected for Ten Days.

When the time came for the adjournment of court on Friday Attorney James A. Branch, who is associated with Attorney R. W. Martin, of Pittsburg, and Congressman William Schley Howard, as counsel for Charles Banning, wealthy capitalist of Pittsburg, who is seeking release from his internment at Fort Oglethorpe, had not entirely concluded his final argument in the case, so Judge W. T. Newman summoned those interested in the hearing to return Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Banning have extended far beyond the time expected by the attorneys. Beginning Monday morning it was thought that the hearing would probably end Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest, but the questions of international law involved have proved to be more intricate than had been supposed and, consequently, the case has spun itself out over the entire week.

Though the hearing will, without doubt, be closed after a short session Saturday, it is not likely that Judge Newman will render his decision for some ten days or more, owing to the mass of evidence which he has been presented, and which he will go over in the form of briefs.

No New Developments.

There were no new developments on Friday, the arguments set forth being mostly an expansion of those suggested in the earlier days of the hearing. The district attorney was the first to speak at the morning session, continuing the presentation of the government's side of the question. His entire argument on the two days covered a period of almost five hours.

One of the accusations brought against Banning was that he sought the privileges of American citizenship and then escaped its obligations. The district attorney made the statement that there are as many as 10,000 native Germans who have been naturalized as American citizens, now living in their mother country, yet endeavoring to hold on to the advantages of their American citizenship, without performing any of the obligations which go with that honor. "A man cannot swing on to American citizenship and then go to some other place and there perform all the function of a citizen, as Mr. Banning has tried to do," he concluded.

Banning was interned as a dangerous enemy alien in November, 1918, without being given a hearing, an action which the president was empowered to take during the time of war. The argument of the petitioner is that he is an American citizen and, therefore, entitled to a hearing.

Attacks Are Answered.

In answering the two attacks made by the government on Banning's citizenship—first, that he has expatriated himself on account of long residence in Berlin since his naturalization, and intent to make that his city his home, and second, that the naturalization is not legal on account of an omission in the oath—Attorney Branch contended Friday that neither of these objections affected his client's standing as an American citizen.

"Mr. Banning's declaration and oath," Mr. Branch said, 'were made out on forms approved by the secretary of state, and must, it would seem, be binding. If Mr. Banning's papers were faulty, there must be many others which are likewise, but these have not been challenged."

Mr. Branch cited proof of Banning's intention to continue his American residence and citizenship in the fact that he registered with the American consul in Berlin. No American citizen is required to register with a foreign consul until he has been in that country two years, he said. It is claimed by the counsel for the defense that Banning never remained in Berlin as long as two years without returning to America.

Banning remarked after the trial that the thing he wishes is to go to some quiet spot where he can "live at peace with his neighbors." He came to this country something over thirty years ago as a representative of the Naylor, Benzon company, an English iron and steel importing firm. He had been living in England, having gone there from his home in Westphalia, Prussia.

Making a start in the steel business in this coutnry, he made a fortune in the manufacture and sale of this commodity, being formerly the senior partner of the Banning-Cooper company, a firm which is now liquidated.

At the time when he might have been considered a most successful man, having accumulated, it is said, in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, most of which is now invested in stocks and bonds in this country, Banning is faced with a situation which may leave him without the right to citizenship either in his native country or that of his adoption.

EXTENSION OF TRADE PROVIDED IN MEASURE

Washington, January 10.—Aid in extension of American foreign trade is provided in the annual legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill for 1920, reported today to the house. The measure carries appropriations totalling $96,318,900, approximately $7,000,000 more than the 1919 bill.

For the expansion of America's foreign trade an appropriation of $905,500 would be given the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. The appropriation, which is double that made in 1919, contemplates the sending of agents of the bureau throughout the world to investigate opportunities for American business.

Assistance also would be given American firms engaged in foreign trade through the state department, additions being provided for the department's staff of trade advisers and legal experts.

In providing for state department needs, the bill abolishes the title of counsellor for the department and substitutes the title of under-secretary of state.

The increase in appropriations carried by the bill is due largely to provisions for the 1920 census, the amount proposed for that purpose being $13,650,700. The other principal increase is an appropriation of $2,238,000 over the 1919 appropriation for the internal revenue bureau.

Reductions from the 1919 bill consist mainly in elimination of many positions created during the way, more than six millions of dollars being cut from the war, navy and state department's pay rolls. Contingent expense funds of various departments were cut several hundred thousand dollars, while military research work by the bureau of standards is eliminated at a saving of $460,000.

Discontinuance of the sub-treasuries at Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and San Francisco also reduced the appropriations $463,000. Development of the federal reserve system, in the opinion of the house appropriations sub-committee, has eliminated the necessity of maintaining the sub-treasuries.

"Citizen of World," Says Alleged Slacker Now in Fulton Jail

That he is a citizen of the world, and not of any country, is the claim of Morris Becker, supposed I. W. W. member, who, having been released from the federal prison after serving a term for conspiring to defeat the selective service law, is now held in the Fulton county jail pending trial for failing to register last summer, when he appeared before Judge W. T. Newman Friday to ask that he be released on bond in order that he may go to New York for a visit to relatives.

Becker, who is a Russian by birth, insists that he is not ready for trial, and has asked an indefinite postponement until his attorney, who is in New York, can come to Atlanta. Judge Newman offered to assign counsel to Becker in order that his trial may be concluded, but the prisoner would not consent to this, his one idea being to "get out on bond."

The district attorney explained to Judge Newman that Becker's attorney had written asking that a $1,000 Liberty Bond be accepted in place of bail for his client. This offer was refused, personal security being demanded. Nevertheless, the lawyer forwarded the bond, which the district attorney has declined to take out of the postoffice.

Until satisfactory arrangements for the giving of bond can be made, Becker was returned to jail. He will be brought into court again Saturday.

When asked if he were a citizen of Russia, Becker replied in broken English, but very seriously, "As I have told you before, I am a citizen of the world."

Would-Be Financier Of Darktown Wrote Many False Checks

Country Was Flooded With Forged "Certified" Checks by Negro Who Ordered Liberty Bonds by Wholesale.

If the brokers with whom Benjamin Franklin Sims, leading would-be financier of Darktown, placed his orders had only seen fit to cash his numerous "certified" checks he would now be probably the largest owner of Liberty Bonds in Atlanta, instead of merely an inmate of the Fulton county jail.

There is nothing of the piker about Benjamin Franklin, in the number of his aliases or in the size of his personal checks which he will draw under any given name. The fact that his large checks were usually ignored by the firms with which he fain would do business discouraged his efforts not at all until Wednesday when he fell into the tender keeping of the police after he had been sought by Pinkerton's Detective agency, the American Bankers' association and the post-office inspectors for something like two months.

The patriotism of the indefatigable check-maker cannot be doubted since practically all his attempted investments were in Liberty bonds, with smaller sums appropriated to war savings stamps. The country has been flooded with orders from the Atlanta promoter for Liberty bonds, the instructions being that the documents were to be sent by parcel post to various addresses, care of general delivery. Sims is now held on a charge of attempt to defraud through the mails.

Orders $1,500 Liberty Bonds.

Toward the last of December John Muir & Co., well-known brokers of New York city, received a letter signed by "John W. Taylor," asking that Liberty bonds in job lots to the amount of $1,500, "for which I am enclosing certified check," be sent by return mail. The fact that the signature of the cashier who supposed to have certified the check, which was drawn on the Central Bank and Trust company, was in the same handwriting as that of the signer of the check may have aroused some suspicion in the minds of the experienced metropolitan financiers, or it may have been that they guessed the secret when they saw that the date stamped underneath the cashier's certification was printed December ——, 18, with space for the day and the first two figures of the year to be filled in, instead of the more conventional form, December ——, 191—, warned them to take care. At any rate a wire was sent the Atlanta bank and the Liberty bonds were withheld.

On another occasion Sears-Roebuck & Co., in Chicago, received a neatly written letter, businesslike in form, enclosing a similarly certified check for $327, ordering merchandise to the extent of $27, and asking that the remaining $300 be forwarded in war savings stamps. Strangely enough this order was also was placed on the investigation list. Another bank was called upon by the dauntless Sims for $25,000 worth of bonds. In fact, the negro, who says he is a college graduate among other attainments, has been chiefly a man of letters since October, when he was released from the DeKalb county chaingang after having served a sentence of five years for forgery, according to the reports of those familiar with his past.

Decorated Letters.

These letters were decorated with Red Cross emblems, stickers and other insignia placed thereon to carry with them the weight of authority. They are now held as evidence and will be used in the prosecution.

The circumstances of Sims' arrest were somewhat dramatic. He was followed from the postoffice where he had come in the hopes of carrying away with him a valuable parcel post package, to a Western Union office, where he began a telegram to which he signed one of his fictitious names. Upon being asked by his pursuer what his name was, he at once said "Sims," in spite of the signature which he had just written on the telegram, and he was given opportunity to prove his true identity.

Found on his person were several other false checks, still unused, and now become mere 'scraps of paper."

Sims' address in the city is given as 31 Tattnall street, and he was an employee of the American Express company.

GLASS AND BURLESON STICK TO THE HORSE

Washington, January 10.—Secretary of the Treasury Glass and Postmaster General Burleson prefer the time-honored horse-drawn vehicle to the automobile, and in deference to their wishes, the house appropriations committee amended the legislative bill today so as to provide carriages for their personal use, instead of automobiles, which will be furnished other members of the cabinet.

STEAMER HITS MINE; CREW BELIEVED LOST

London, January 10.—The British steamer Northumbria struck a mine off Middleborough Thursday and it is believed most of the crew was lost. A boat with two survivors and eight dead has been washed ashore. Four boats which left the ship with survivors are missing, and it is believed the boats were swamped while attempting to make shore.

The steamship Northumbria was of 4,215 tons and was owned in Glasgow. She was 360 feet long and was built in 1906.

UNRIPE CRITICISM.

"Opponents of the league of nations," comments The Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review, editorially, "make the mistake of keeping their eye too much on imaginary dangers and of losing sight of the real menace to world peace and safety."

This is undoubtedly true.

Our northwestern contemporary prints a letter written by Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington, to a constituent, in which the senator —an opponent of the league plan— says:

If the United States becomes a member of a league with power over war and peace it means the surrender of independence fought for in the revolution. A league without such power is the same as The Hague convention already existing. The league, as proposed, means an end of the United States as a sovereign nation, and puts us under the control of alien powers. It makes us party to every foreign quarrel.

Criticising its senator's position, The Spokesman-Review cites the period of the American revolutionary war, which war was fought not to win the sovereign independence of a united nation, but to win the independence of thirteen individual colonies banded only in a "league of friendship," whose government had "no power of coercion and the various states being virtually independent."

For several years, as history shows, that relationship between the states existed. "It continued," says The Spokesman-Review—

because just such objections as Senator Poindexter now raises against a league of free nations were then vigorously raised by such men as Patrick Henry against the formation of a real union.

Eventually far-seeing statesmen saw that the real perils that threatened the loose confederation were immeasurably greater than the imaginary dangers conjured by the sticklers for absolute state sovereignty; and out of that conviction was born our present constitution, adopted, in the language of its preamble, "to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Without doubt, when the great statesmen of the world get down to the formulation of the details entering into the proposed constitution for a league of nations, all of the imaginary obstacles can and will be overcome and the rights and sovereignty of the individual nations party to the peace contract will be protected and safeguarded as were those of the several states of our union by the national document that was drawn up by the statesmen of America and adopted by the American people.

It is not conceivable that the United States stands in any possible danger from such an alliance; but there is every reason to believe that those who profess to shudder at the thought of it are frightened —if their expressed fright is genuine—at nothing more than an "air-drawn dagger" and a flying Dutchman of their own fancy.

The Spokesman-Review very properly sums up the whole situation with reference to the league proposal and the arguments advanced by those opposed to it, as follows:

If, after this horrifying war, the effort to found a single open league of peace-loving nations should fail, the old and dangerous method of forming rival leagues or alliances, perhaps in secret, will continue. In that event the United States, standing all alone, will be constantly menaced by one combination or the other. Why hold greater fear of a league of friends, in whose councils our voice would be potent, than of a league or leagues that would not be bound to us either by friendship, sentiment or solemn constitutional obligation?

Every reason that impelled the 13 colonies to join in a league after the revolution speaks now for a great league of nations to guard the future peace of the world. Every objection now leveled against the proposed league of nations was once leveled against the formation of our federal union under the constitution.

The United States is not going to be forced into any objectionable league or alliance against its will; and there will be ample time in which to discuss, and, if desirable, to criticise, the provisions of the proposed international constitution after they have been drafted and made public.

Until that time criticism is worse than useless, and those who criticise have no means of knowing what they are criticising.

WELL DONE!

The Georgia Railway and Power company and its officers are to be commended for the concessions they have made in an effort to bring about harmony between the company and its employees.

For many years the company has enforced a policy of using nonunion men only, and has consistently and successfully resisted occasional but determined efforts to unionize the men in its service.

Friction has resulted frequently, and the public has suffered more or less severely whenever the conflict reached an acute stage.

In quick response to the suggestion of President Wilson, shortly after the declaration of war with Germany, the Georgia Railway and Power company removed its ban from union labor and inaugurated an open shop, agreeing that the national war labor board should arbitrate all disputes between the company and its employees involving wages and working conditions.

The award of the national board was not satisfactory to the union, and dissatisfaction continued to prevail among the employees of the company.

By their action every reasonable contention of their employees has been voluntarily and graciously granted by the corporation, and it is to be hoped that the public, as well as the company and its employees, will now reap the benefit of the harmonious conduct of this important public service corporation.

It was characteristic of H. M. Atkinson, and his associated officers, to meet a regrettable condition by a bold remedy in harmony with the spirit of modern progress.

THE PUBLIC'S INTEREST.

Following a shooting affray in Atlanta recently, and the arrest and incarceration of the alleged aggressor, the two principals, defendant and prosecuting witness, reached an amicable agreement in the presence of the jailors, evidently under the misapprehension that they had thus drawn the curtain upon the whole affair and the prisoner forthwith would be released from custody.

Too frequently in the past similar proceedings under like circumstances have worked out just that way: One citizen inflicts a criminal injury upon another, then is forgiven by the injured party, and that ends the whole episode. The public is not accredited with any rights whatsoever in the matter.

But Solicitor Boykin has taken a correct appraisement of his duties and of the state's interests, and has set his face against any such subversion of law and justice in the future, so far as his jurisdiction extends; and in this instance he courageously announced that "the public must be considered in these shooting affairs, even though the persons involved smooth over their differences."

The courts, he declared, "must not be interfered with" simply because the persons in the case reach an understanding.

And he is right.

When one citizen shoots, or commits any sort of criminal offense against another, he violates a public law. The crime he commits is against the whole people and the public constitutes a third interest that has a right to consideration.

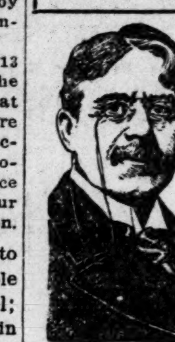

The mental attitude or any possible "change of heart" on the part of either or both of the principals certainly does not satisfy the public's interest in the case, nor does it relieve the courts of their obligation to proceed with the trial of the cause on its merits.

"Money speaks all languages distinctly," says The Richmond Times-Dispatch. And it's mighty seldom you hear anybody telling it to "shut up!"

Another view of the fighting in Berlin is that somebody must have thrown them a bone from a lunch basket.

The Salt Lake Tribune says there's no longer any "wild west." It's getting so bone-dry that a man can't qualify as a dime novel hero by shooting up a saloon.

From "Old Kentucky."

They have been saying that Kentucky was "on the mourners' bench," but Colonel George Bailey quotes a New-Year greeting from that source as follows:

And your sorrows come in gills,
And your woes be little taters
Few and far between the hills."

No matter how bright the world gets, we're not worrying for fear we'll blaze before our time.

Hoping for the best helps us along, but working for it is the exercise we need.

"In the Day's News"

Esme William Howard, who is prominently mentioned for the post of British ambassador to the United States, is well known in Washington, having served there as counciller of the British embassy some years ago, and as acting ambassador during the interim pending the appointment of a successor to Sir Mortimer Durand. Born in 1863, he passed the competitive examination for the diplomatic service at the age of 22, and was appointed assistant private secretary to the Earl of Carnavon, then lord lieutenant of Ireland. Later he was successively attached to the embassy in Berlin, assistant private secretary to Lord Kimberley when the latter was foreign secretary, and as consul general in Crete. In 1911 he was made minister to Switzerland and since 1913 he has filled a similar post in Sweden.

Future of Aviation Here Discussed By Atlantans Back From Air Service

By Britt Craig.

Jimmy Alexander—beg pardon, Captain James Alexander, United States air service—and I want to know what America is going to do with a golden opportunity it doesn't know what to do with.

Said opportunity being aviation, Jimmy—must I call him captain merely because I'm a shavetail louie?—and I got together yesterday afternoon and talked the matter over, pro and con, but for all we could say or think of, the country is today in no better fix with its opportunity.

Here's the situation, maybe you can help us:

America has aviation on her hands. She has unlimited energies stored up during the war for developing aeronautics: invaluable skilled labor, endless sources of material and some 20,000 trained fliers. Never before in all the history of sciences has a science been in such good shape for development as aviation.

Up to America.

And it is up to America, as a matter of national pride, if nothing else, to make of aviation a leading science and attainment.

But how is she going to do it? That's the question that drove Jimmy and me to ginger ale, with lithia on the side, when I went down and talked to him at his desk in the Atlanta National bank, where he has gone back to his duties as assistant cashier.

Aviation cannot be commercialized to any great extent yet awhile —certainly not to the extent of using the planes in proportions which manufacturers are able to turn out at the present time by the resources accumulated during the war. The Packard company, alone, is able to turn out fifty Hispano-Suiza motors a day, but where are they going to place fifty Hispanoes a day, the engine being available only for aeroplanes?

The Dayton-Wright plant up in Dayton had a capacity of 120 De-Havilands a week when the war ended, but who is going to buy that many ships every week?

The Curtis plant in Buffalo turned out aeroplanes on an equal scale, and there are a number of plane plants over the country which have the help and resources to manufacture flying machines at the rate of twenty or more every day.

Industrial Problem.

The production of aeroplanes during the war so far exceeded the growth of commercial, industrial and pleasure uses to which they could be put that the flying machine industry today must either sit and twiddle its thumbs until that part of the nation which can use airships gets a hump on and bestirs itself, else lock the doors and shut up shop for good.

And Jimmy and I are worried, for we both are interested in aviation. Jimmy played a big part in helping speed up the production of army planes when John D. Ryan took hold after that first big fiasco of manufacture in the early days of the war, and I flew some of the ships Jimmy sped into our hands. Up until the time the whistle blew over on the other side Jimmy was speeding up ships and I was speeding up in some of them.

Jimmy was in the midst of the rapid fire production which followed the days of My Ryan's installation in the head of the aircraft production board. He knows as much as any other man, perhaps, of the status of America's aeroplane industry at the time the war ceased. As a captain on the industrial relations board he visited virtually every production plant in America and Canada.

Chance of Generation.

When he talks of the vast facilities that America has acquired for the manufacture of planes you can almost see the skies darken with fabric-coated wings being hurled along at the roaring behest of that young twelve-cylinder cyclone, the Liberty motor. The country has the chance of a generation to develop flying as a commerce, sport, pleasure and industry.

But how is she going to do it? Where are the landing fields, where all the money with which to purchase the expensive planes, where the Midas who will say: "Here, go buy all the ships you need and experiment a while?"

Must all the skilled labor developed in the aeroplane factories scrap their skill and go back to work at the loom and paintshop and cabinet mill? Must all the materials and sources of materials brought to hand by old man Mars, who put fire on the terrapin's back and makes him move when all else will not, be let go to waste?

Back to the Prosaic.

Must all the 20,000 fliers who have had life's supreme thrill have to go back to their prosaic pursuits at the desk and workbench and classroom after having passed through an adventure so alluring that it makes all else in life like playing poker for fun?

Of course the government will do its share of experimental work, in addition to the operation of aerial mail lines. But this will be so far short of supplying a demand for all the planes that the present industrial resources can supply that it would be a sadly losing proposition to keep all those resources in harness.

Captain Alexander, in his position in the industrial relations branch of the aircraft production board, was responsible for maintaining harmony between the producer and employer during labor dissensions that at times promised to badly hamper war plane production at a time when it had been accelerated after months of mismanagement.

In addition, he supplied skilled labor from among the limited service class in the army cantonments, his efforts carrying him to all parts of the United States and most of Canada. He tells of an incident at Camp Grant, when he delivered an address to 5,000 draftees in effort to induce skilled labor among the men physically unfit for fighting service, to go to work in the aeroplane factories.

Interpreters Needed.

When he had finished his speech he asked for all men who could speak English and who had understood him to raise their hands. Eighteen hands went up from the 5,000 men. The problem was solved by a Swede soldier translating the captain's speech, and then an Italian, followed by a Norwegian, followed by a Pole, followed by—

But that's beside the story, which is this:

Captain Alexander has seen all the insides of the aeroplane industry from coast to coast and he has seen that America is equipped today to make boundless strides in the development of aeronautics—strides that have never been made in any other science, strides that would make every man a flier, would make the nation a birdlike race, would fill the air with the hum of motors and drive the eagle from his domain, people the clouds with our people and dodge the prohibition issue by removing oneself from the face of the earth.

But howthehell's she going to do it?

The language is mine—the sentiment Jimmy's.

Health Talks---By William Brady, M.D.

POOR MALNOURISHED CHILDREN.

A regular, ethical, orthodox, that is to say, thoughtful and observing reader of this column writes:

"In your column recently appeared the astonishing statement that children of the poor are about as well nourished as children of the middle classes and the more cultured upper crust. . . . The missus taught school a few brief years ago, and kid sister teaches now, both in a nest of Italians, Chinks and a few dishes of social scum in the vicinity of Mulberry street, New York city. Those kids drink prodigiously of a rank red wine, even for breakfast. They subsist regularly on a diet of soda crackers and pickles at noon, for their mothers work out, as a rule. Young tots, many of them. If malnutrition isn't the descriptive word, then what is?

"Prices of good things to eat are astounding. For our children we use three quarts of grade A milk a day, at 23 cents a quart—69 cents a day. Butter—ye gods, butter has started more Bolshevik talk in our household at 75 cents a pound than Trotzky could wish for! And only yesterday the farmer lady informed us that eggs may be purchased at the nice, round, comfortable price of 80 cents per dozen.

"There are hundreds of thousands of heads of families drawing $18 to $20 per week. Fresh milk, fresh eggs and real butter have a fat chance of gracing the table in a home on that basis!"

Oleomargarine at half the price of butter is a perfectly satisfactory substitute for butter at war prices. Children who receive as much as a pint of fresh, clean raw milk (raw milk, I say, and not pasteurized or heated milk) lose nothing from such substitution.

Eggs never will be worth more than 40 cents a dozen compared with the market prices of fresh fish and meats. Eggs are meat.

Children old enough to take a reasonably varied diet of solid foods —that is, children who have cut any teeth, can do very well without milk at war prices, provided they have bread and oleo, fresh vegetables or fruits, and some kind of fresh meat or fish daily.

Malnutrition is the word for the Mulberry street child that subsists on wine, pickles and crackers. Fortunately, poor in most cities do not follow that regimen.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Bridegroom's Health Certificate

A young man was cured of gonorrheal infection in six weeks' time. If he should now marry would children be likely to be defective or deformed or diseased? (P. M. M.)

ANSWER—The young man has no right to marry. Possibly after a year, if a competent physician will certify that he is free from the infection, he may safely marry. Gonorrhea never causes defective, deformed or diseased children. It does cause eye inflammation of a serious kind which may lead to blindness in a newborn baby. A "cure" of gonorrheal infection which is completed in six weeks' time is a very doubtful cure indeed.

Softening of the Brain.

What are the symptoms of softening of the brain? Is it prevalent among young people? (S. A. W.)

ANSWER—Sorry, but I am just out of symptoms. 'S against the rules of this department to state symptoms. Softening of the brain is a popular name for general paralysis of the insane (paresis)—in which disease there is no softening, but rather hardening of the brain and spinal cord. Paresis sometimes occurs in young persons, but is more generally observed in persons forty or more years of age, being a sequel of syphilis, acquired or inherited.

I Give Up.

Please tell me what is ailing me. I have no energy and cannot take any interest in anything. (D. M.)

ANSWER—Unfortunately, I broke my second sight glasses this morning and so I am unable to determine what is ailing you. You might try the Ouija board or something, if you can't reach a doctor.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of The Constitution.

ROBBED BY SOLDIERS OF $165, SAY NEWSIES

Two newsboys, Clem Maddox and Herman Dond, on Friday complained to the police that they had been robbed of $165 on Thursday night by two discharged soldiers.

According to the story told by the boys, they were in their room at a downtown hotel when the ex-soldiers entered and, threatening the boys with heavy clubs, or "billies," demanded that they turn over all their money at once.

Maddox states that he was compelled to give up $95 in cash and a $50 liberty bond, while Dond puts his losses at $20.

The boys claim to know who their assailants were, giving the names as Munroe Lowe and Buster Newman.

On Friday night the chief of police at Marietta, Ga., reported the arrest of two ex-soldiers at Marietta, caught hoboing their passage on a freight train. Chief Beavers requested the Marietta authorities to hold the two men, while Maddox and Dond go to Marietta with a view to identifying them.

REPORTS MADE FRIDAY ON INHERITANCE TAXES

Inheritance taxes from five counties, which were collected in 1918, were on Friday returned to the state of Georgia through the office of Comptroller General Wright.

Sumter county returned to the state $949.35 on the estate of R. E. Cato. On the estate of J. M. Heard, Houston county returned $124.47. Clark county returned $767.63 on the estate of Miss Carrie Thurmond, and $71.69 on the estate of W. C. Orr. On the estate of J. A. B. Sykes, of Decatur county, $1,318.58 was returned. Bibb county returned a tax of $116.71 on the estate of Mrs. Bessie Haskins. Troup county returned $217.28 on the estate of Mrs. S. T. Render.

Captain Hall Coming Home.

Benjamin Mortimer Hall, Jr., captain of engineers, on the staff of the chief engineer of the second army, A. E. F., at Toul, France, has cabled his parents that he will be home soon. His brother, Captain Warren E. Hall, is also in the Engineers' corps, and is now water supply engineer of Base Section No. 2, A. E. F., Bordeaux, France. Both of them have been on active duty in France for more than a year.

TO USE INDIVIDUAL QUOTAS COMING DRIVE

New Plans Adopted for the Fifth Liberty Loan in This District.

That the reorganization of the Liberty loan campaign plan is being perfected and everything will soon be ready for the launching of the Fifth Liberty loan campaign, is the announcement made from the publicity department of the Sixth Federal district yesterday.

Reorganization was necessitated on account of the adoption of a new method which will be used in this campaign.

The new method adopted is the individual quota system which was originated in the state of Iowa.

In the installation and execution of this system the bulk of the work will devolve on the zone chairman, county chairman, field representative and executive committee.

The new method will consist of securing the names of every individual in the different counties of the district who is able to buy a bond and then allowing each the amount of bonds that he can pay for in a reasonable length of time, and then making a direct appeal to the individual to subscribe this amount.

These lists will be gathered by the treasurey department and will be based, not only on the actual worth of the citizens alone, but the earning power of each citizen will also be considered.

These lists are now being made up and the information is being obtained from banks, tax records, pay rolls.

Each county chairman will be expected to assume the responsibility of carrying out the campaign in his territory. He will appoint chairmen from each militia district to aid him in the work.

Every citizen in the Sixth Federal Reserve district will receive within the next few weeks a card indicating the amount of bonds to which he is expected to subscribe in the next campaign.

It is expected that the new plan will be favorably received by all citizens who believe in American ideals of fair play, and officials in the Liberty loan office prophesy that the district will go over the top with less work in the coming campaign than in any of the previous ones.

Higher Phone Rates Are Allowed at Ten Exchanges in State

Postmaster General Burleson, who is in charge of telephone and telegraph lines since the government took over the same, through his federal agents, formerly managers and vice presidents of the properties, has filed with the state railroad commission orders increasing local exchange telephone rates at ten local exchanges in Georgia that are operated by the Consolidated Telephone and Telegraph company.

The Consolidated company operates the exchanges in Moultrie, Pavo, Barwick, Moreven, Berlin, Sale City, Whigham, Newton and Norman Park.

The orders call for an increase of 50 cents per month per station for all classes of business and are effective January 1, 1919.

Postmaster Burleson allows the Fruit Bell Telephone company, located at Fort Valley, to make an increase of $1 per month in the business phone rate and an increase from $2 to $2.50 per month for residence phone rates.

It is generally believed that this increase allowed by Burleson is merely the forerunner of a general increase throughout the state in all the phone rates.

Two Suspects Jailed For Horner Shooting; Both Had Revolvers

Two negroes are now being held at the police station for further investigation on suspicion of being the parties responsible for the murderous assault on A. H. Honer, who was badly wounded Wednesday night just as he was in the act of closing his grocery store near the corner of Davis and West Hunter streets.

The negroes registered at the police station as Roy Thomas, 19 years old, of 260 Vine street, and Cain Essing, rear 7 Mays street. Thomas was arrested by Officers Howell and Freeman, who said that as they were walking leisurely along the street near the Terminal station, with apparently no reason for his action, the negro began running away from them. After a short chase the officers caught him, and claim that they found a large revolver in his pocket. They stated that four of the cartridges had been discharged. Later the officers took Cain into custody, claiming they found him in the same neighborhood, carrying a large revolver.

ORDER AUTO TAGS NOW.

Demand Far Behind Last Year, Say Officials.

The demand for license tags for automobiles is far behind the demand this time last year, stated officials in the office of Secretary of State Strange on Friday.

Twelve thousand cars are registered from Atlanta, and up to date only 200 applications have been made for tags for cars in Atlanta. Every car in the state must have a 1919 license before March 1 and the mailing capacity of the office of secretary of state is only 4,000 per day, so that if many car owners wait until the last minute to buy a tag, the rush will be so great that some will have to put their cars up until the office has time to deliver tags that are applied for during the rush.

All applications for license must have the motor number written plainly on it.

ATLANTA MEN LISTED IN WOUNDED COLUMN

The names of two Atlantans are included in Friday's casualty lists in the wounded column. Junius Williams, previously reported missing, is now recovering at a base hospital in France from the effects of being slightly gassed, according to a letter received from him recently by his sister, Miss Emma Williams, of 169 Ponce de Leon avenue. He is 23 years old, and went overseas with the 356th infantry, which was formerly stationed at Camp Grant.

Thomas Smith Vawter, previously reported missing, is now reported as being wounded. A letter was received from him recently by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Vawter, of 200 West Kimball street, notifying them that he had been wounded, but was now recovering in a base hospital in France.

News has been received in Atlanta that Thomas E. Reagan, formerly a well-known printer here, has been wounded in action in France. A message was received recently by his aunt, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of 15 McDonald street, advising her that he had been wounded. Details, however, are lacking. He is a member of the Ninth cavalry.

GEORGIAN IS CITED FOR HEROIC SERVICE

One Georgian, Lieutenant Colonel Courtney H. Hodges, of Perry, has been awarded the distinguished service medal for extraordinary heroism in action, according to the latest lists issued by the war department. Colonel Hodges was cited for gallantry in action in the desperate conflict near Breulles, France, just east of the Meuse river. The citation reads as follows:

Lieutenant Colonel Courtney H. Hodges, Sixth infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Breulles, France, November 2-4, 1918. He personally conducted a reconnaissance of the Meuse river, to determine the most advantageous location for a crossing, and for a bridge site. Having organized a storming party, he attacked the enemy not 100 paces distant, and, although failing, he managed to effect the crossing of the canal after twenty hours of ceaseless struggling. His fearlessness and courage were mainly responsible for the advance of his brigade to the heights east of the Meuse. Home address, Mrs. Kate Hodges, mother, Perry, Ga.

FINANCIERS APPROVE WARFIELD RAIL PLAN

Would Return Roads to Private Ownership Through Co-operation.

Chicago, January 10.—(Special.)—Prominent Chicago financiers and business men yesterday approved the plan of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities for a return of the railroads to private ownership by co-operation with shippers, allowing rate increases when needed, as promulgated by S. Davies Warfield, president of the association.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial bank, Chicago's biggest financial institution, said:

"I am in hearty sympathy with Mr. Warfield's efforts. There should be co-operation between the shipping interests and the transportation lines that would allow a reasonable interest on rail investments. The public sooner or later must understand that it must pay for the character of service it demands There should be a proper relation maintained between outgo and income. I think if some committee could be formed that would be charged with the work of taking care of both income and outgo of railroads it would work to the interest of everybody. This committee would allow wage increases and at the same time would be charged with the responsibility of taking care of such increases with higher rates.

Private Ownership.

"I believe thoroughly in the private ownership of railroads. The government should supervise, but not too strictly, the operation of the carrier. Ownership or too high a control by federal government would kill the initiative of everybody concerned. I think if the railroads were held as they are 22 months longer the public would make a demand for their return to private ownership."

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, said:

"I do not think there is any radical difference between Mr. Warfield's plan and that of the railway executives. Mr. Warfield wants the co-operation of the shippers, and to have them feel that at times rate increases should be conceded and not opposed. His plan is not adverse to pooling. I think all the plans provide for private operation with strong government regulatory power. The owners should be allowed to run the railroads, but with strong government support. The whole question turns around wages and rates. The shipping public must understand that you can't have all outgo and no income."

Indorsed by John Shedd.

John G. Shedd, president of Marshall Field & Co., said:

"I have not sufficiently studied the various suggestions that have been made to make a definite statement of preference as to the best procedure of handling the railroad problem.

"The business interests of the country are intensely interested in the service rendered by the railroads, and I am quite sure the needed service can only be secured under operation by private interests. I think the roads should be returned to their owners at the earliest moment, under such government control as would allow the pooling of certain facilities. Most important also is the arranging of rates high enough to compensate labor with a wage sufficient to establish proper living conditions and to leave a balance for the proper remuneration of the stockholders and also sufficient to provide for the upkeep of the properties to the highest degree of efficiency and safety."

CAPITOL NOTES

A meeting of the state board for vocational education will be held in the capitol today at 11 o'clock. The board is composed of D. C. Barrow, of Athens, chairman; M. L. Brittain, executive and director, Atlanta; Dudley M. Hughes, Danville, vice chairman; B. H. Hardy, Barnesville; Sam Tate, Tate; J. Randolph Anderson, Savannah, and Ross Copeland, Augusta.

The state board of education will meet in the capitol Monday, January 13. The board is composed of Governor Dorsey, president; M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools; Dr. G. R. Glenn, Dahlonega; Dr. T. J. Woofter, Athens; Hon. Walter E. Steed, Butler, and Professor A. H. Moon, Baxley.

Invite Soldiers to Georgia.

H. M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor, on Friday sent letters to all railroads in Georgia suggesting that they insert advertisements in all papers located along its line of road, inviting soldiers from other states to locate in Georgia and welcoming back returning soldiers.

GROCERS ARE WARNED BY MAJOR M'CLATCHEY

"Grocers seem to have the impression that the food administration no longer exists," said Major D. F. McClatchey, of the food administration shall be in force and they are compelled no longer to abide by any government rules in making sales. For the benefit of such persons it would be well to refer to section 24 of the food control act, which says that the administration shall be in force and effect until the president of the United States issues a legal proclamation of peace. It is the belief of Washington that such a proclamation will not be issued before June 1."

The statement was made in regard to the tendency exhibited among many grocers of the state to disobey the fair price food regulation set by the administration. The fair price inspection force, under the direction of P. H. Mell, is making a tour of inspection of the grocery stores of the city.

AGED MICHIGAN COUPLE ARRIVE ON LONG HIKE

George Cort, 50 years of age, and his wife reached Atlanta Thursday evening on their walk from Williamston, Mich. They announced that they were on their way to Florida to spend the winter. They earn their food and lodging as they travel along by cutting wood. While they are in Atlanta they will cut wood for I. C. Clark in Bellwood. Cort insists that walking is great for the health. It has taken them many months to make the walk from Michigan to Atlanta.

ATLANTAN IS YOUNGEST MARINE IN THE WORLD

The youngest marine to take part in the great world war is Harold Woodbury, 15-year-old son of Mrs. C. W. Woodbury, of No. 351 Cooper street.

Harold has been wounded twice, and was gassed in the struggle at Chateau Thierry.

His mother was very much opposed to his entering the service, but in a recent statement manifested her pride over the record made by the youngster, and declared she would forgive and welcome him when he returned home.

On Embalmers' Board.

H. M. Patterson, well-known Atlanta funeral director and president of the city board of health, was on Friday appointed by Governor Dorsey as a member of the state board of embalmers for a term of five years, beginning January 1, 1919.

Capitol Officials Ill.

Comptroller General Wright and J. H. Sledge in the insurance department of the comptroller's office were confined to their homes on Friday on account of illness.

WEBSTER SAYS PHONE RATES ARE INCREASED

Georgia Rate Expert Declares New Rates Not Lower as Stated.

J. Prince Webster, rate expert of the state railroad commission, has made an analysis of the long distance telephone rates in Georgia, under the rates being now charged and those to be charged under Postmaster General Burleson's bulletin No. 22, and announced on Friday that all long distance rates in Georgia would be increased instead of being reduced.

Contrary to statements which have been given out by Washington, D. C., officials, that the orders contained in bulletin No. 22 would cut toll rates, upon application, it has been disclosed by Mr. Webster that in Georgia the rate will be greatly increased.

For instance, if a call was put in in Atlanta for a man who was stopping at a hotel in Macon and the said man was out, the operator would report, as she does under the present system, that the man was not at the hotel. When he returns to the hotel he would be notified of the call, the person calling from Atlanta would be gotten on the line and if the conversation of three minutes took place, a charge of 75 cents would be made for the conversation, and a charge of about 20 cents would be made for the report that the man called was out, making the cost of a conversation from Atlanta to Macon come to 95 cents. The same conversation now costs 60 cents.

Increases of approximately the same percentage will be put into effect by this order on January 21.

LOAN NECESSARY TO PAY WAR DEBT, SAYS FRANKLIN

The necessity for another Liberty Loan is being emphasized by L. B. Franklin, of Washington, director of war loan organization, in conferences with Liberty Loan officials in federal reserve districts throughout the country. Mr. Franklin is now in the south, having visited Atlanta and New Orleans. He expects to hold conferences in every district within the next few weeks.

It is explained by Mr. Franklin that the government must meet the enormous outstanding obligations for war contracts. Production of ships, munitions of war, and material of all kinds had reached the desired stage when the armistice was signed. The expenses incurred must be met although fighting has ceased. Revenues from taxes and other sources will not be sufficient to cover the indebtedness, therefore, the treasury department will ask for another loan, said Mr. Franklin.

The banks of the country cannot be expected to underwrite this bond issue. With the restoration of peace and return of normal trade conditions, banks will need all available money for commercial purposes. To burden them with the obligation of absorbing an issue of several billion dollars would stifle business and interfere with trade. The fifth loan must be floated out of the earnings and savings of the people.

The amount of the issue and interest the bonds will bear will be determined by the treasury department early in the spring. The date of the loan has not been decided upon, but it is believed that the treasury department will select some date in April for the beginning. In the meantime, plans are being made to float an issue as large as the fourth Liberty Loan—six billion dollars.

SIRL WINCHESTER INDICTED FRIDAY BY GRAND JURORS

Sirl Winchester was indicted yesterday by the Fulton county grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to murder. He is still held in the Fulton Tower.

The indictment grew out of the sensational shooting on New Year's day of Mrs. Mary Hines, alias Green, who afterwards married the prisoner while he was in jail for the shooting.

Because of the Georgia law which prohibits a wife from testifying either for or against her husband, Mrs. Winchester did not appear before the jury.

Mrs. Winona Ping, a woman friend of Mrs. Winchester, who is said to have seen the shooting, testified.

Dr. Stevenson Here To Promote Interest In Study of Bible

Rev. Frederick D. Stevenson has resigned his appointment as religious secretary of the Army Y. M. C. A. at the University of Alabama, and returned to Atlanta to devote his time to the promotion of interest in Bible study.

His plans were indorsed by the Presbyterian Ministers' association, which appointed a committee to cooperate with him and to have general oversight of the work.

The plan is to organize classes in as many communities as possible and to have them meet in the forenoon, afternoon or evening.

The leader of this movement was a student of White's Bible school, New York city, then for a year professor of Bible study at Agnes Scott college, and then pastor of Moore Memorial Presbyterian church. A nominal tuition will be charged.

So far only two classes have been organized. One will meet at the Pryor Street Presbyterian church every Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock to study the Gospel of Mark. This class will be trained in the method of mastering a book. The other class will meet at the Central Congregational church Thursday at 7:45 p. m., and study the Book of Exodus. This will be especially interesting for Sunday school teachers.

DR. FRASER TO PREACH AT WESLEY MEMORIAL

Rev. B. F. Fraser, the pastor, will preach at Wesley Memorial Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on the subject of "The Supernatural in Church Life," basing his discourse upon a Biblical story which shows how the "impossible things" and the apparently insurmountable obstable of religious and church experience can be accomplished and overcome by faith in the supernatural.

Dr. Fraser has made the telling of Bible stories most popular, and his trite application of analogous situations that arose in Biblical days to the conditions that obtain today have continued to create great interest.

Dr. Fraser will preach also on Sunday evening at 7:30, when a long list of accessions to the church will be read.

Wesley Memorial choir, under Professor Roberts, is one of the best in Atlanta, and a fine musical program will be given at both Sunday services.

Dr. Fraser asks that all members of Wesley Memorial be in their places Sunday.

DINNER GIVEN GIRLS AT WESLEY MEMORIAL

A big dinner was held at the Martha Candler home in the Wesley Memorial church at 6 o'clock Friday night, attended by 150 girls, who live at the homes in the city that are conducted under the auspices of the Ministers' Evangelical association, of Atlanta.

A special musical program was rendered, and John Marget acted as toastmaster. A number of visitors were present and delivered addresses.

STATE HIGHWAY PLAN WILL BE CONSIDERED

Members of the state highway committee, the budget and investigating committee of the legislature, and the chairman of the state highway commission, have been requested by Governor Hugh M. Dorsey to submit to a joint meeting of the above named committees, on January 16, in the form of a paper, a comprehensive plan by which the highways of the state may be improved and the collection of the federal fund made possible by the state.

These three committees have been called in joint session by Governor Dorsey at his office in the capitol next Thursday, to devise ways and means of inaugurating a system of good roads throughout the state and of obtaining the federal appropriation for use in road work, which is dependent on an appropriation for such work by the state.

The plan of highways formulated by the committees will be submitted to the general assembly with the recommendation that it be adopted and suitable legislation enacted to carry it out.

Governor Dorsey has been studying highway systems in other states and conditions in Georgia, and he stated Friday that he asked the members of these committees to have a written plan to submit to the body at its meeting in order that all opinions and schools of thought would be represented, in tangible form.

Other men who have taken a prominent part in the promotion of campaigns for good roads in the state have also been asked to attend the meeting.

The personnel of the joint session will be composed of budget and investigating committee of the legislature, H. M. Dorsey, Clifford Walker, attorney general; M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools; George Carswell, of Irwinton, and J. Hill Hall, of Macon. Highway committee appointed by Governor Dorsey under an act of the legislature of 1918, T. E. Patterson, Griffin; S. M. Turner, Whitman; Charles Strahan, Athens; Julian M. Smith, Augusta; Craig R. Arnold, Dahlonega; Walter P. Andrews. The state highway commission, composed of T. E. Patterson, R. E. Davidson and E. L. Rainey.

25 LIBERTY BONDS WORTH $250,000 LOST

Chicago, January 10.—The disappearance of $250,000 in Liberty bonds consigned by the First National bank, of Detroit, to the Studebaker corporation, South Bend, Ind., remained a mystery today, although the loss was noted January 4.

The circumstances are said to indicate a clever robbery. The bonds, 25 in number and of $10,000 denomination, bear numbers from 23,734 to 23,758.

Postoffice records at South Bend are said to show that five registered packages were delivered to the Studebaker offices January 4. The postmaster has five receipts purporting to show this. Studebaker employees found four of the packages, but the fifth, which contained the bonds, was missing.

The postmaster is said to have exhibited a receipt for this package bearing the signature of the 17-year-old mail clerk employed by the corporation. The lad denied the signature was his, and insisted he had received no such package.

Since then postal inspectors have been at work and the vast Studebaker plant has been searched from basement to roof without developing a single clue, it is said.

BURNED WOODEN PARTS SO AS TO REACH PORT

Mobile, Ala., January 10.—When the Santurce, one of the steamers used in the New York-Porto Rico trade by the Mallory line, limped into Fort Morgan late yesterday afternoon the officers of the ship told a thrilling story of their voyage from Porto Rico. Shortly after the ship left Porto Rico on a trip to New Orleans she encountered heavy winds and storms. Due to the delay occasioned by the heavy seas, the coal supply ran out and she was forced to burn wood. In an effort to make land it is said that she burned up all the wood and wooden parts which could be used without subjecting the ship to danger. Captain Carrier and members of the crew spent many hours sawing and cutting wood for the boilers, and finally the ship made Fort Morgan.

HIGHER FARES DENIED CAR LINES IN NEW YORK

New York, January 10.—The city board of estimate today denied the request of the Interborough Rapid Transit company for an increase in the fare charged on elevated and subway lines from five to eight cents. The board also denied the request of the New York Railway company for an increase of the surface lines from five to eight cents and three cents for a transfer.

The board adopted a resolution to be the effect that there appeared to be no reason why financial burdens caused by the war or otherwise should be shifted from the holders of Interborough securities to the traveling public.

Pig-Fattening Record.

Washington, D. C., January 10.—Boys' and girls' pig clubs in Ames, Iowa, lately have been making big records in pig fattening. Information just received by the states relation service, United States department of agriculture, shows that one boy, for a period of 123 days, made a gain of 2.39 pounds a day on his pig; another 2.26 pounds a day. Twenty boys have averaged two or more pounds a day.

"It is the best record from the standpoint of rate of gain that we have ever received," says Frank O. Reed, the pig club leader in Ames. Some excellent gains and unusual profits also have been made in beef fattening. Several members of the boys' corn club report over 100 bushels to the acre, one showing 135, 126 and 124 bushel yields.

Credit for Belgium.

Washington, January 10.—A credit of $3,250,000 in favor of Belgium was established today by Secretary Glass. This makes a total of $256,145,000 in loans for Belgium, and a total for all the allies of $8,588,773,702.

TRUE VALUES

Dr. Ellis Tells of Arab Self-Development Hopes In His Opening Article

William T. Ellis, LL. D., world-famous authority on the Near East, who recently sailed from New York for that interesting quarter of the globe, has arrived in Paris. He will write a series of unique first-hand articles on those lands in southern Europe and Asia, which are not only famous in ancient history, but are now occupying a prominent position in the daily news from Europe.

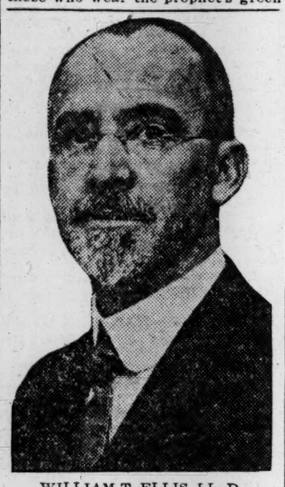

These articles will appear exclusively in this section in The Constitution and will carry to the readers of this paper intimate studies of the daily changes in the history of those mingled races who inhabit that peculiar region. From Italy, Greece, the Balkans, Turkey, Palestine, Egypt, the Caucasus and Persia, Dr. Ellis will send his stories and they will form entertaining and educational factors in the understanding of the reconstruction that is now going forward among the nations of the world.

Dr. Ellis has now reached Paris on his journey to the East, and from there cables his first story, concerning an Englishman whose romantic career has been closely associated with many phases of near eastern development in recent years.

By William T. Ellis, LL. D.

Paris, January 9.—In mysterious Mecca's archives is the most wonderful genealogical record in the world—a roll of parchment about fifty feet long and four feet wide—on which each ruling emir of Mecca has written with his own hand his name. Every one is a descendant of the prophet, Mohammed. The thirty-sixth in direct line of descent, and therefore the chief of the tribe of Koreish and keeper of the holy places, is Hussein, the new king of the Arabs, whose rise insured the downfall of the Turks.

The thirty-seventh on the list of those who wear the prophet's green mantle is Feisal, the 32-year-old son of Hussein, who is now ruler of the Syrian government, with his seat in Saladin's city of Damascus. He is at present in Paris.

For an hour today we talked of the East. The prince is graceful and affable, reinforcing the earnestness of his words with the eloquence of his hands, as when he simulated the tearing into scraps of the old agreements between the European powers for the partition of Asia Minor and Syria. His plea for the right of self-determination was a passionate echo of President Wilson's principles.

AMERICA AND ARABIA.

Here was one the anomalies of this strange gathering of the nations—this child of the desert, born in Mecca of a proud Arabian tribe of immemorial antiquity, and with the holiest blood in all Islam flowing in his veins—declaring that the voice of America, penetrating into the fastnesses of the desert has awakened Arabia so that the Arab-speaking peoples call upon this conference of civilization to permit and assist them to develop their own lives free from exploitation by any of the great powers.

I listened to this voice from the distant, romantic lands, which Moses and Jesus knew, while the speaker, pure-blooded scion of Mohammed, pleaded for an era of greater tolerance between Christian sects in the east and between Moslems and Christians. He told me that there were entire Christian companies from Lebanon, led by Christian officers, in his army that routed the Turks. His medical corps was composed almost entirely of Americans who were graduated from the Beyrut school.

ARABS TOLERANT OF CHRISTIANS.

After the first wild rush of Arabs over the East and over Europe in the early days of Islam, they have been tolerant of the Christians. Not a single Armenian has been slain in Arabian territory during the recent Turkish atrocities. Instead, the Arabs have protected and fed the Christian refugees.

I had heard from other sources that Prince Faisal devotes one-tenth of his $100,000 to feeding Armenians in Aleppo. He refused, however, to talk about this, saying something about charity being a home concern, not something to be talked of abroad, and that he wished to Allah that the wealthy Armenians of the East would take this burden off his poor government.

"It was from the Syrian protestant college at Beyrut, an American institution, that the new passion for national liberty first came to the Arabs," said Prince Faisal. "Then, after America entered the war and the news of President Wilson's views came to our towns and cities, our tribes took new heart. This looked like an opportunity for the Arabs to escape from under the Turkish yoke and to find, once more, an opportunity to work out the highest possibilities of Arab civilization.

"We do not want to be made like the British, the French, the Russians or the Americans. We want to be ourselves, growing into whatever form of government our own people desire.

ASKS FOR AMERICAN OVERSIGHT.

"We must have help in developing our resources. We need guidance in education and in administration problems. Our plea is that America, which has no territorial ambitions and which primarily is responsible for this Arab awakening, accept the responsibility of oversight in Syria, Palestine and Arabia."

He dismissed in a sentence the picturesque situation of Christians being succored by Mahomet's own descendants after they had suffered Turkish atrocities committed in the name of the prophet. He stigmatized the Turks as "bad Moslems."

"Indeed, I, myself," he said, "have seen Christians and Moslems hanging from the same gallows, merely because they sought to escape from the Turkish yoke."

I feel confident that if Prince Faisal gets a chance to talk with the peace commissioners a new Arabian flag will take its place among the banners of the world. It is a flag with a red triangle against a staff and three horizontal stripes, black, green and white. In London and in Paris it has been seen flying above the radiator of Prince Faisal's automobile.

ALBRIGHT IS INDICTED ON CHARGE OF MURDER

That evidence to show a motive was submitted to the grand jury yesterday in the case of William Albright, who was indicted for the killing of Carlisle H. Christy, is hinted by court attaches, although the proceedings of the grand jury are being kept secret by the solicitor's office.

The principal witnesses quizzed by the jury were Detective Guy H. Lindsey, who was at the home of G. C. Febuary, 21 Mathewson place, in front of which the shooting occurred, the night of the tragedy, and Mrs. Febuary, a principal figure in the case, in that Albright's story is that Christy had been annoying Mrs. Febuary previous to the shooting. Several other witnesses were also heard.

Albright is expected to be brought before the criminal division of Fulton superior court the latter part of this month. At that time the solicitor's office is planning to spring a surprise with evidence said to be now at hand, but which was not even revealed to the grand jury.

Mrs. Febuary appeared at the courthouse Friday morning, stylishly attired, wearing a long, fur-trimmed coat and a most attractive hat. She declared to newspaper men that she had nothing to hide, and was prepared to tell the jury everything she knew in regard to the case—that there was nothing she knew which had not already been made public.

The indictment against Albright charges murder. He is being held at the Tower without privilege of bond.

WEALTHY SUBSCRIBED TO SECURITY LEAGUE

New York, January 10.—John D. Rockefeller was one of the largest individual contributors to the maintenance of the National Security league, S. Stanwood Menken, former president of the league, testified here today before the congressional committee investigating the league's activities. Mr. Menken said Mr. Rockefeller had subscribed $35,000.

A contribution of $40,000, he testified, was made by Arthur Curtis James, of New York, member of the Phelps-Dodge corporation, which has large mining interests.

Other contributors named by Mr. Menken included Bernard Baruch, $6,000; H. C. Frick, $3,500; J. P. Morgan, $2,500; William K. Vanderbilt, $2,500; T. Dewitt Cuyler, of Philadelphia, $2,500; Simon, Murray and Daniel Guggenheim, $3,750; Nicholas J. Brady, $4,500, and T. Coleman DuPont.

The witness gave the committee a prepared statement concerning the organization of the league, designed to show that the body, formed in December, 1914, was not organized for the purpose of advocating the entry of the United States into the war, but to advocate a degree of preparedness which he declared would have kept the country out of the war.

He declined to answer a question whether he believed the president "had conducted the war satisfactorily," but declared that congress had worked for national defense "only under dictation." Only pressure brought to bear by the president, he asserted, made possible enactment of the army and navy bills and other war measures.

BAKER ASKS $8,488,782 AS DEFICIENCY FUND

Washington, January 10.—Congress was asked today by Secretary Baker for a deficiency appropriation for the current fiscal year of $8,488,782, of which $6,000,000 would be for paying additional employees of the war department and $2,473,782 for the burial of soldiers, officers and civilian employees.

General Stephens Dead.

New York, January 10.—Word was received here today of the death on January 4 in France of Brigadier General John Edmonson Stephens, commanding the 61st brigade, Field artillery. General Stephens was a native of Franklin, Tenn. Death was due to pneumonia at Camp De Coetquidan.

Canady Funeral Today.

The body of Joseph R. Canady, of the United States naval base at Key West, Fla., who is the son of Rev. H. D. Canady, pastor of Allen's temple, and one of the most well-known colored ministers in the state, will lie in state at his father's church Saturday morning from 9 to 11 o'clock. He died while on a furlough, a victim of Spanish influenza. His brother, Lieutenant Guy Wesley Canady, was killed in the Argonne forest just one day before the armistice was signed. The funeral services will begin at 11 o'clock with Bishop J. S. Flipper officiating.

19 ARRAIGNED FOR ALABAMA LYNCHING

Tuscumbia, Ala., January 10.—The nineteen white men indicted for participation in the lynching of two negroes in Sheffield recently, were arraigned in the circuit court here today and their cases docketed for trial. A number of the prisoners have been kept in jail at Birmingham since their arrest.

All members of the juvenile will be admitted free to the matinee of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra on January 24, and in order that the children may derive the greatest possible benefit from this musical treat, this meeting today is designed to tell the children just what a symphony orchestra is composed of. The different instruments will be shown to the children and simple, familiar airs played on each one. This knowledge will be of much value to every child who contemplates attending the orchestra concert; also much benefit may be derived by parents and other "grown-ups" from this program today.

Admission will be by membership card, which may be obtained at the door—non-members, whether children or adults, will be charged 25c.

Executive Board Meets.

The executive board of the Woman's Baptist Missionary Union of Georgia held an important meeting January 7 at the First Baptist church.

Eight women were present from the state to meet with the local board, Mesdames J. C. Pittman, Dublin; Charles F. Cater, Quitman; Taul White, Rome; D. B. Hamilton, Rome; F. W. Withoft, Fort Valley; G. H. Prior, Greensboro; J. C. Nichols, Griffin, and P. G. Awtry, LaGrange.

Miss Susan Anderson, corresponding secretary, resigned to go as missionary to Africa. She will leave February 1 for Baltimore to join a class in study of the language under Dr. Pinnock, returned missionary from Africa.

It was with deepest regret that the board accepted Miss Anderson's resignation. She has been associated with this work only a short time, but has endeared herself to everyone and has proved herself a consecrated and efficient leader.

Misses Eloise and Annie Blount Moseley, of Greensboro, will soon enter the W. M. U. Training school at Louisville, Ky., to prepare themselves more fully for Christian service. We gladly welcome these excellent young women to the "House Beautiful," and are pleased to add two more bright Georgia girls to those already there.

The training school girls were well remembered Christmas by friends from all parts of Georgia, having received boxes of presents, nuts, fruits and so on, all of which were greatly appreciated and enjoyed by them.

Mrs. Taul White, of Rome, is the state chairman of mission study elected at the recent convention held in Atlanta. She is full of enthusiasm for this work and is well qualified by her previous experience in Floyd county. Her plans for state-wide mission study as outlined by her at the board meeting cannot fail to awaken an interest in this all-important branch of mission work.

The W. B. M. U. is preparing to launch immediately a campaign for funds for the Catherine Bryan Kindergarten and Normal Training school at Shanghai, China. The amount to be raised is $15,000. Five thousand dollars of this is expected to be raised this year through special gifts and Liberty Loans.

The Time for Family Mending And Wardrobe Replenishment

By ISMA DOOLY.

This is the time for the family mending and what may be termed the basic part of the family wardrobe and household things, the good housekeeper will tell those who listen to what good housekeepers have to say.

The big department stores know it, and they are showing household linens and the white materials for underwear. They are showing the materials for little John's school shirts and for Mary's aprons in those well-regulated families where Mary still wears aprons.

It is a time to look over just what the family wardrobe affords, and where replenishment is needed. If there is a set of napkins broken, every good housekeeper knows it, and she mends the table linens and the fancy centerpieces and serviettes. She looks after the curtains, old and new, and takes a kind of inventory of what she needs for the house and what she will have to get.

If she expects guests for the opera, she begins to bethink herself if the spare room is in order; if she is going to have the walls done over, and just when and how she will entertain her guests. She goes farther into the household goods, and investigates the china. Are there any broken sets, and what about the silver?

And just as methodical is the good housekeeper about the wardrobe of the family, from papa right on down to the smallest mite of a baby who grows from day to day. Now is the time in this period of between seasons to do the less interesting but nevertheless necessary sewing. The tub frocks for children are made now for spring wear, and the frocks which need freshening for spring wear should be looked over. There comes the period when it is too early for spring, and when the winter things are worn. At this moment they can be cleaned and freshened and made to fill a very useful part.

In midwinter both dealers and dressmakers know what the fashions are going to be for spring, and there are already the pretty modes established.

Sashes will be worn in long graceful fashion, knotted as often to the side as to the back, and satins, soft silk as well as chiffons, are the materials which will lend themselves to fashion.

Dressy and vari-colored skirts in pretty soft materials, sometimes printed, sometimes brocaded, will be seen in the sport costumes worn with the separate blouses, now dressier than ever, lace trimmed, embroidered and most pretentious in fashion. For spring smart short jackets in bright colors will be worn with plaid and check skirts, and silk and satin sport coats will be seen.

Just as pretty and chic as the frocks are being reshaped in advance shops are the hats of the season, with rustic straw in the dark colors as the heralds of spring and already seen in the windows.

Brown, it is anticipated, will continue its popularity of the winter, with beige color, sand color and the related colors coming in for their favored places. Already women are beginning to talk of early Easter season with the opera incident to it, and the entertainments which always center about opera. This is going to make all-important such questions as "Will there still be the little sash trains to smart evening gowns?" "Will bodices for evening still be worn high in the back and low in front, and will the sleeveless gown still be favored?"

The lace scarfs and the tulle scarfs are still worn on all evening occasions, and never were fans more fashionable, those of feathers and lace and very ornate, as opposed to the smaller fans of several years ago.

Artificial flowers are spoken of as a favored garniture for evening gowns, and the accessories of the toilet will carry the parasol as an important feature. There will be the dark-colored parasols for morning wear and those gayer in effect and design for afternoon functions. Veils, too, are most picturesque in suggestion, and will be in colored laces, as well as those in black and white.

THE HOPE CHEST

A Gripping Story of Modern Society With a Fascinating Mystery Plot

By MARK LEE LUTHER

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

Some twenty centuries, miscalled minutes, dragged by. Then, reconnoitering, she spied him on the platform in the lee of a pyramid of trunks. It was as private as any spot about a railway station could be, and her lover's wish that he might have her alone was forthwith gratified. By himself he had hatched two fresh arguments, but he forebore to mention them. Long before train time they were of a single mind of the feminine gender.

To be traveling together was a blissful sensation, and there were intervals during the journey when they even forgot toward what destination they sped. The traffic was light, and neither in the chair car nor in the diner were they troubled by near neighbors. Their bridal supper had the intimacy of a stolen rendezvous, and they ate with gusto they knew not what.

"Do you think the waiter suspects that we've just been married?" asked Sheila. "He's one glittering smile."

"I shouldn't wonder," said Tom. "They're experts at spotting newlyweds, those chaps. Besides, I'm not good looking enough to pass for your brother."

"Fishing!" she accused. "You know you're good looking."

"Nobody ever told me so.'

"Then perhaps I oughtn't. But I will. I'd call you very good looking. You make me think of some of the men in the magazine illustrations."

"Not the collar-ad Johnnies!"

"Don't," she pouted. "I'm serious. I mean the ones in the stories, of course—the kind who win football games and boat races, and are clear-cut and clean-limbed and all that."

"They wear immaculate evening clothes, too," he added, grinning. "And they have red blood in their veins."

"You're poking fun at me. But you are like some of the pictures, all the same. It was the first thing I noticed about you."

"Was it?" he exclaimed. "Why, I had almost that thought about you, Sheila. I told myself that you might have stepped out of a ripping cover design. I didn't believe there were any such girls till I met you. And then I realized that you could give the whole outfit cards and spades."

"Tom!"

"Yes, you could. You've the peach-blest skin, the evenest, whitest teeth—"

"No better than yours—teeth, I mean."

"Features that are regular without being insipid—"

"So are yours."

"Hair of just the right shade of brown—"

"Which shade is that?"

"Yours. I can't describe it. And eyes—why, I've lain awake nights thinking about your eyes. They're like stars and sapphires and wood violets all at once. Nobody ever had such eyes."

Sheila sighed her ineffable content.

"I do love you, Tom," she said.

"I worship you," he vowed.

They attacked the salad.

"Your voice,' he went on presently. "I liked that too from the start. It's different. Most girls screech—especially girls who work for a living."

"So I've noticed," said Sheila.

"Is that why you keep your voice low?"

"Yes," she admitted. "Besides, it helped sell goods."

"And you dress quietly," he observed.

"We had to in the B. & H. shop, you know."

"But not out of it. Some of our employees looked like parrots when I met them outside."

"That's because they didn't keep their eyes open."

"They'd never look at things from your point of view, Sheila. You're a thoroughbred. I wish I'd known your people."

She was silent and he, mistaking the cause of her reticence, respected it. As her father had surmised, he believed her alone in the world and was at heart relieved that he was to be all in all to her. Some day, he supposed she would speak of her bereavement, but his curiosity as to her parentage was slight. Indeed he found it hard to associate her with such unromantic facts as parents. Nothing short of an act on special creation could satisfactorily account for such a glorious being. He beheld her unique and perfect of her kind.

But Sheila, pledged to secrecy and conscious of her burden, gave him credit for deep concern and was cast into a panic by his next words.

"By the way," he said. "I saw you on the Board Walks this afternoon."

She felt her cheeks blaze.

"Where were you?"

"Coming from luncheon with the manager. I'm sure he didn't see you—we were too far away—but of course I couldn't be fooled at any distance."

"You weren't," she said. "I had an errand to do."

"When I saw you you were talking to a smooth-faced man in a gray suit."

"Yes," she assented as casually as she could. "I met some one I knew."

"Shall I lower the window shade?" he offered. "Your face looks hot."

"Please," she said. "It's like August today."

"You haven't a headache?" he questioned, settling back in his seat.

She thought the ordeal past and sparkled into her usual vivacity.

"Today? What an idea!"

Tom addressed himself again to his thumbscrews.

"Who was that man, Sheila?"

She held to her smile, but it felt like a grimace of pain as she plunged down the path marked out for her.

"He once boarded in the same house with me," she explained.

"He had a nerve to hold you up! He looked old enough to be your father."

Sheila lifted her head.

"He's a gentleman," she said. "And I was glad to see him. I shall always be glad to see him. He—he knew my father."

"Oh!" said Tom. "What is his name?"

"Lew Pam."

"A queer name," he commented, his curiosity spent at last. "Try these grapes, dearest."

They lingered at table till the outflung suburbs, dotted with lights, began wheeling by, and then, swaying and laughing, started back to their chair car. By the doorway of a smoking compartment a lurch of the train threw her into his arms. The place was deserted, and the resourceful Tom whisked her inside and kissed her.

"Some one will come," she panted, regaining her freedom of speech. "Let me go now."

"Not till you've returned it."

She paid the debt with usury.

"You do care, don't you?" he whispered unsteadily.

"You know, Tom!"

"And you always will?"

"Forever and ever."

"And you'd rather have gone the other way tonight if things had been different?"

"Much rather."

They embraced again and with high color, loosened hairpins, a rumpled cravat and perfect decorum re-entered their own car and the world of things as they are.

AVOID "FLU" AND PNEUMONIA BY STERILIZING NOSE

London Epidemic of 1891 Proved Ol. Eucalypti (Eucapine Salve) Is Most Effective Preventive Known.

Get out your jar of Eucapine Salve or, if you have none, go to the nearest drug store at once and get a family jar of this well-known nose and throat sterilizer. Sterilize morning and night by sniffing the Eucapine up into the nostrils and back into the throat, whence it will spread to the larynx and tonsils, thus sterilizing the nose and throat.

The chief ingredient of Eucapine Salve is Oleum Eucalypti, the non-poisonous antiseptic whose power to prevent influenza was first discovered in the London epidemic in 1891. In addition, Eucapine Salve contains just enough camphor, menthol and oil of white pine to make it soothing, healing and delightful to use. Even the babies enjoy it. Ask any well informed physician and he will tell you that Eucapine, though originally designed for the mother's use with her children in colds, croup and to prevent pneumonia, is the best and most agreeable antiseptic you can use to sterilize the nose and throat of young and old alike.

Note—One application of the product referred to above sterilizes the air passages for about twelve hours against diseases contracted through the nose and throat. Any druggist can supply you for half a dollar.—(adv.)

The Whisper That Comes in the Night

The Glorious Knowledge Women Gain When a Wonderful Thought Steals Over Them.

Happiness in its most thrilling degree comes to women with the thought of possessing a baby.

Every woman in the joy of coming motherhood should prepare her system for the unusual strain. Three generations have found the tried and reliable preparation, Mother's Friend, of the greatest help at such a time. By its daily use throughout the period, the skin of the abdomen is made soft and elastic, expanding muscles relax easily when baby arrives, and pain at the crisis is in this way avoided.

The inflammation of breast glands is soothed.

Obtain from your druggist, by all means, this great preparation which science has offered for so many years to expectant mothers.

Write the Bradfield Regulator Company, Dept. D, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their helpful and interesting Motherhood Book, and begin the use of Mother's Friend. It is for external use, is absolutely safe and wonderfully effective.

And remember, there is nothing to take the place of MOTHER'S FRIEND.—(adv.)

LAGRANGE TO ERECT HANDSOME HOTEL

LaGrange, Ga., January 10.—At a meeting held in the offices of the LaGrange National bank on yesterday afternoon, presided over by J. E. Dunson, Jr., it was decided to appoint a committee for the purpose of securing options on different sites here, looking to the erection of a large hotel.

J. E. Dunson, Jr., Ely Callaway, Horace Lanier, H. W. Caldwell and J. A. Perry were appointed to serve on this committee. They are to report to another meeting on next Monday.

The committee has already secured several options on desirable pieces of city property. The plan most discussed at present contemplates a handsome hotel to cost between $200,000 and $300,000, with stores and possibly an auditorium connected with it.

GREAT BELIEVER IN BLACK-DRAUGHT

Oklahoma Lady Tells How Her Husband Believes in Black-Draught and Uses It for Many Ailments.

Nowata, Okla.—Mrs. W. B. Dawson, a resident of this place, says: "My husband is a great believer in Black-Draught and thinks it cures about everything.

It is splendid for malaria, headache, constipation (which usually causes headache), indigestion, or any kind of stomach trouble, and we just keep it for these troubles. I don't know when we haven't used it, and we always find it satisfactory.

I know it has done us both a lot of good and saved us many dollars. I use it in teaspoon doses at first and follow with small doses, and it sure does make a person feel like new.

It cleanses the liver better than any other liver tonic I have ever used, and after taking a thorough course nature asserts itself and you are not left in a constipated condition that follows a lot of other active medicines. This is one thing I like especially about it."

For over 70 years Thedford's Black-Draught has been in use for many simple ailments and today is a recognized standard remedy in thousands of family medicine chests. It will pay you to keep Black-Draught in the house for use when needed.

Your druggist sells it.—(adv.)

And So They Were Married

Episode One—(Intolerance).

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR.

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

CHAPTER V.

Like two children avoiding each other's eyes, Scott Raymond and Ruth Rowland Raymond went out into the night together. Behind them they left the past with its mistakes and its opportunities. Only the future lay ahead.

They saw a play, a sentimental thing of love and excitement. Ruth remembered it only vaguely as a background for her own feeling. People had looked at them curiously when they had stepped out of the taxi, and Ruth wondered why. She had broken up her wedding bouquet and now wore just a small corsage of lilies-of-the-valley. She wore the gray duvetyn skirt to her suit and her squirrel coat over it. A tiny little gray velvet toque swirled in feathers was perched on her head. But it wasn't so much the bride clothes that betrayed her; it was a lingering something that can always be felt where there are newly-married people, and if Ruth had but known it, a certain radiant effulgence that shone out on her face, a satisfied possessiveness on the part of Scott.

As they stopped on the sidewalk for a few minutes a man and a woman, who were walking by, suddenly spied Scott, who was paying the taxi fare, and hailed him joyously.

"How are you, old man?"

"Well, Scott, you certainly are a stranger." From the girl, who was pretty in an artless kind of a way, "This is my wife," Scott said boyishly, almost stumbling over the strange word.

"Wife!" exclaimed the girl. "When were you married? Why, we only heard of your return yesterday."

"I've been married three hours," said Scott solemnly, consulting his watch.

Then there were more laughing congratulations and finally the two passed on and Scott and Ruth went into the theater.

"Who were they, Scott?" Ruth queried after they were shown to their seats.

"Why, he's a dancer, and the girl is on the stage. Nice couple. I've always liked Betty."

Ruth was silent a moment, then she said slowly, "But, of course, not in our crowd."

Scott turned to her quickly. "That sounds snobbish. If they're nice and worth knowing, what does it matter?"

Ruth checked the quick reply, but made a mental resolve right then and there to put her foot down if Scott intended to be friendly with people like that. It was one thing to know such people and quite another to be friendly with them, or to try to keep up any kind of intimacy. She simply would not have it. And then she forgot all about it in thinking about Scott himself. The lights went out, and the curtain went up, and in the reflected glare of the footlights Ruth, by stealing a glance sideways, could see Scott's profile regular, and with that keen look of expectancy that she had grown to love more than anything. How could she be small enough to have such sordid little thoughts? Of course, if Scott liked these people they must be all right, and she would try to like them, too, but in her heart of hearts Ruth was quite sure she never could.

"Did you like it?" Scott asked, as they stood up to go out.

Ruth nodded and smiled up at him. The color flamed up in her face at the look in his eyes and her lashes dropped.

"Are you hungry, shall we have something to eat?"

"I couldn't eat a thing, dear."

"We might have something served in our room," he said, making an effort to be casual. As though it were possible to be casual when speaking about something so dearly new and intimate. "Some sandwiches or something, would you like that?"

"That would be fine," Ruth assented, not thinking at all about what she was saying. And so they sauntered down lighted Broadway. Their traveling bags Scott had left at the hotel that afternoon. All they had to do was to go inside and register.

"How shall I register?" Scott asked laughingly in an effort to be light.

Ruth considered. "Not Scott Raymond and wife," she demurred. "It somehow leaves me so characterless."

"How about Mr. and Mrs. Scott Raymond?"

"That's splendid." She laughed nervously. They were almost there, and she wanted to put off going in as long as possible. The foolish dread that she had felt at the altar was coming over her again, that haunting fear that she had fought off all evening, was leaving her cold and foolishly frightened. She tried to reason with herself, but all in vain, and she wondered desperately why it was that Scott seemed so composed and matter of course. Of course, she did not really know how Scott was feeling. A man might feel deeply about a thing, but he somehow managed to successfully hide those feelings, especially a soldier who has gone over the top several times.

FOR COLDS AND GRIPPE DOCTORS ADVISE

The Improved Calomel Tablet That Is Entirely Purified of All Nauseating and Dangerous Qualities.

Physicians are warning the public against trifling with colds, influenza and grippe. They say that a brisk calomel purgative, preferably Calotabs, the new and improved calomel tablet, should be invariably taken at bed time and repeated the second or third night, if necessary. In the earliest stages, one Calotab is usually sufficient unless the case is particularly severe.

Physicians say that it is a waste of time and is dangerous to experiment with other laxatives, as calomel is absolutely necessary sooner or later. One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water,—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with diet, work or pleasures. Next morning your cold has vanished and your whole system is purified and refreshed. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages. Price thirty-five cents. The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspironal, the Two-Minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the Laboratories: tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whisky, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough cure they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do, to get rid of that cold, is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you a teaspoonful with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. COLUMBUS FIRE LOSS TO EXCEED $300,000

2,000 Bales of Cotton and Seven Railroad Cars Destroyed by Flames.

Columbus, Ga., January 10.—Fire here tonight destroyed the plant of the Home Mixture Guano company, burned 2,000 bales of cotton and seven railroad cars, three of them loaded with meal, causing a loss estimated at between $300,000 and $500,000.

The blaze, which was believed to have been caused by a spark from a passing locomotive, was outside the city limits and the local fire department was unable to give aid in bringing it under control on account of a lack of water facilities.

Huge quantities of cotton seed meal stored in the buildings were consumed by the flames. While officials of the company refused to give any estimate of the loss to the company, it is understood that most of the loss is covered by insurance.

LICENSE FAVORED FOR ALL BEGGARS AND SOLICITORS

The board of welfare, which was appointed last summer by the mayor, met Friday afternoon to perfect an organization and to arrange for regular meetings. The chairman, John I. Smith, and the vice chairman, Tom Connally, were both absent, and there was not a quorum present, so no official action was taken. It was decided, however, to meet on the second and fourth Fridays of each month.

After a discussion the members present agreed to ask an amendment to the city ordinance regarding begging or the soliciting of funds in any fashion, so as to make it necessary for any solicitor to show credentials or a license from the city before any citizen could be approached for a donation of any kind. Dr. Ed Mincey, who is chairman of the benevolences committee of council, will be asked to present the changed ordinance at the next meeting of council.

"Atlanta people have been too often imposed upon by false solicitors," said Steve R. Johnston, who was acting mayor Friday, and an interested attendant upon the meeting. "Designing persons have been able to go to the home of a resident and represent themselves as taking up funds for the Associated Charities or any other organization, receive a contribution and go their way rejoicing, if the man or woman interviewed is susceptible to charitable impulses. Hereafter we are going to make it very hard for such people to operate in this city.'

3,665 ATLANTANS DIE IN PAST YEAR, SAYS U. S. REPORT

Out of Atlanta's 240,000 inhabitants, 3,665 died last year from various causes, according to the compilation just received by Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, from Washington. This gives the city a yearly rate of 18.2, which is lower than that of any other southern city.

Although Atlanta's death rate went above the normal number last week, according to the official report the city's rate was lower than that of any other in the south with the exception of Louisville.

The total number of deaths in Atlanta last week reached 82, giving her a rate of 21.2, while Louisville's rate of 19.1 was based on 89 deaths. New Orleans' death rate is still very high, while Washington and Richmond are also far in advance of other southern cities.

San Francisco leads the cities of the United States for the week ending January 4, having 367 deaths, or a rate of 40. Washington and Cambridge come next.

Dr. Kennedy pointed out that the centers where influenza had at first wrought such ravages showed an increase again, according to the latest report. Boston, for instance, is up in the list again, having suffered 488 deaths during the week under discussion.

Out of Atlanta's deaths last week, 45 were from influenza and pneumonia. The fact that this leaves only 37 from general causes, which is far less than the city's usual number, indicates, Dr. Kennedy says, that some tuberculosis cases were included in the 45, reported as being caused by pneumonia.

GENERAL HARRIS ARRIVES IN U. S.

Many of the Georgia Boys Whom He Trained at Camp Wheeler Saw Bloody Fighting as Replacement Troops.

Newport News, Va., January 10.—(Special.)—Brigadier General Walter A. Harris, of Macon, Ga., who arrived this morning with his aides, Lieutenants W. M. Haile and Robert R. Ingman, of Savannah, and headquarters of the 174th infantry brigade, on board the U. S. S. Madawaska, from France, stated that although the 61st infantry brigade the old Georgia national guard, which he commanded and trained at Camp Wheeler, did not see action on the battle fronts as a unit, the Georgia boys as members of replacements took part i nthe bloodiest battles of the war. General Harris will leave the debarkation camp here in a few days for Camp Dix.

All soldiers, excepting the 1,200 sick and wounded who were in charge of the navy medical corps, were in command of General Harris on the trip across the Atlantic. In addition to his brigade headquarters there were aboard six companies of casuals and about 150 casual officers. The casuals were sent to Camp Hill, the sick and wounded to the debarkation hospitals and the others to Camp Stuart.

Trained Georgia Men.

"I trained the old Georgia national guard at Camp Wheeler," stated the Georgian this morning. "The unit left the states as the 61st infantry brigade, a part of the 31st division. Upon arrival in France we anticipated an early call to the front. The call did not come for the regiment.

"However, from time to time the Sixty-first was drawn from for replacements. As the Huns tore a part of the American fighting army to pieces, our Sixty-first men were taken to fill the roles. A part of the Sixty-first brigade was reorganized and called the 151st machine gun battalion, attached to the Rainbow division.

"This 151st machinge gun battalion has made itself famous. Those of the boys who will go back to Georgia should have a hearty welcome from the people. It is said abroad that the Georgia boys are almost too keen for the fight; they are overzealous; but that was the sort of spirit that conquered the Hun.

"Upon the breaking up of the Sixty-first brigade I was put in Brigadier General W. F. Martin's division, the Eighty-seventh, in command of the Seventeenth brigade. Our headquarters came in on the Madawaska this morning."

Happy to Reach United States.

Lieutenant Ingman, who directed the movement of the troops from the transport, and Lieutenant Haile, who accompanied the general in preparing for the short trip to debarkation headquarters, and thence to camp, stated they were most happy to be on United States soil again; but that they would not be really happy until they get home to Georgia.

"We had a delightful trip across from France," stated the aides. "The weather was balmy and everybody lived on deck. There was the heartiest feeling of comradeship among all persons on board, and the days passed rapidly. We left France December 28."

GEORGE A. WOODRUFF IS LAID TO REST

Emory University, Oxford, Ga., January 10.—(Special.)—George Avery Woodruff, of the Marine corps, who died recently at Paris Island of pneumonia following influenza, was buried Thursday afternoon in the Salem Camp Ground cemetery. The deceased, a brother of Mrs. Douglas Rumble, of Oxford, and of Captain B. Hicks Woodruff, A. E. F., in France, was 18 years old. His home was in Porterdale, Ga., where he was connected with the Bibb Manufacturing company. He leaves a young widow, who was Miss Ada Cain, of Porterdale.

A few days ago Mrs. Rumble received a letter from a regimental surgeon at Brest, France, stating that her brother, Captain Ben Hicks Woodruff, former Tech student, and an alumnus of Boston Tech, was in a base hospital there suffering from a physical and nervous breakdown.

A cablegram just received by Mrs. Rumble brings the good news that Captain Woodruff has recovered sufficiently to be able to return to the states. He is now on the way home. Last fall, just before sailing for France, Captain Woodruff was married to Miss Annie Lou Steed, of Macon.

HOUSING PROJECT AT SAVANNAH URGED

Philadelphia, January 10.—Transportations and housing accommodations for more than 150,000 ship workers in 200 yards throughout the country have been provided through the activities of the division of passenger transportation and housing of the Emergency Fleet corporation, according to A. Merritt Taylor, manager of the division, who appeared before the United States senate committee of commerce yesterday to explain the work of his department.

Mr. Taylor urged the importance of proceeding with the construction of housing projects at Wilmington, N. C., costing $500,000, and at Savannah, Ga., costing $350,000, on the ground that the government will gain an indirect return in ship production.

ASKS SUM TO CONTINUE FARM EXTENSION WORK

Washington, January 10. — Farm extension work carried on by the government in co-operation with the states during the war, would be made permanent under a bill submitted to congress today by Secretary Houston, who asked for an appropriations of $162,000 for continuing the government's cost of this activity. Expansion so as to reach all rural communities is contemplated, the secretary said.

Secretary Houston also asked appropriations of $162,0000 for continuing co-operation with various state agencies in supplying labor to the farmers. He said this work was essential in solving problems that will arise during the period of readjustment.

GEORGIA MAN HAD QUITE A SIEGE

In Hospital, But Improved Greatly After aking Ziron Iron Tonic

In a recent statement, J. H. Martin, of Mount Vernon, Ga., says: "I was in the hospital with stomach trouble and had quite a siege. It seemed I would never get my strength back after I came out, I had been so ill. I ached all over. I was nervous, restless and yet did not feel like getting around. My skin was yellow. My appetite poor. I was in pretty bad shape and began to look around for a tonic. I felt like part of the trouble was lack of iron in my blood. I was so easily worried, so easily upset. I heard of Ziron and knew it would help me. I began to take it and the improvement was great. It strengthened me, renewed my nerves and toned up my system."

When you feel that you need strength, remember that Ziron is a perfected preparation of iron salts, combined with other strength-giving ingredients. Try Ziron.—(adv.)

SUIT FOR DIVORCE FOLLOWS MURDER TRIAL IN MACON

Macon, Ga., January 10.—(Special.) Mrs. Louise Page Medlin, today entered suit, in the Bibb superior court, for divorce from her husband, Walter B. Medlin, who is held in Bibb county jail under a life sentence following his conviction for the murder of W. E. Baker, a barber. Medlin, who formerly operated a hotel, lured Baker to a room on the third floor and shot him five times. At this trial, Medlin claimed the shooting was the result of remarks made by Baker about Mrs Medlin.

Medlin is now awaiting the outcome of his appeal to the supreme court. For the reason he has declared he will killl himself if his wife seeks a divorce, he had not been told of her action tonight.

Mrs. Medlin, in filing her suit, takes advantage of the ruling that imprisonment of a married person for a term as long as three years for a crime involving moral turpitude, entitled the wife to a divorce. Mrs. Medlin, before her marriage, was Miss Louise Page, of Wrightsville. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Vance, of that city.

ON EVE OF ARMISTICE MURRAY IS WOUNDED

Edward M. Murray, of the 151st machine gun battalion, was wounded just four days before the signing of the armistice, according to a letter received by his sister, Mrs. C. A. Britton, of 97 East Georgia avenue.

Sergeant Murray is well known in Atlanta, having been born and reared in this city. He volunteered when the trouble with Mexico began and is a member of the old Fifth Georgia regiment.

He was connected with the Hartford Boiler Insurance company before entering the service. He states he has been in the front lines ever since the American army held the first sector.

Young Marine Made An Honorary Member Of D. A. R. Chapter

Carroll Smith, of the Boys' High school, who has just returned with a broken arm from Chateau Thierry, where he fought with the Marines, has been elected an honorary member of the Joseph Habersham chapter of the D. A. R., and the ladies hope he will be in Atlanta February 12, Georgia day, when the chapter has its annual celebration in Atlanta at the Auditorium and when all the schools come out with banners and songs. They wish to introduce the young marine as an object lesson in patriotism.

Long ago they adopted the marines and the boys sent them word that when they broke dirt for their hall if they wanted any trenches dug to tell it to the marines.

Prior to this the Joseph Habersham chapter had never had but two honorary members—General Joseph Wheeler and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who were both elected at the close of the Spanish-American war.

C. Smith, the well-known Atlanta Carroll Smith is the son of W. R. man who is head of the Rotary club.

BILL M'KINLEY GIVES FEAST TO POLICEMEN

Bill McKinley, the w. k. bicycle cop, who is somewhat of a poultry (feathered) fancier, brought some of his own chickens down to police headquarters last night and feasted the headquarters force.

Fried chicken in this day of altitudinous prices is a treat to the epicurean cop, and turnkeys, station sergeants, patrolmen, motorcycle reserves and even the captains from upstairs joined in the feast.

DUTCHMAN TO ARRIVE TODAY OR TOMORROW

By Dick Jemison.

Charley Frank will return to Atlanta either today or Sunday, to assume charge officially of the management of the 1919 Crackers.

The Dutchman has been in Memphis spending the holidays with Mrs Frank and her people. But all the while he was in touch with the baseball situation and it is believed he'll have some announcements to make upon his return.

From now until reporting date, the Dutchman will be a very busy man lining up his 1919 Crackers, which is certain to be a winner. This season is going to be a good one. It will be the best that Atlanta has ever experienced if there is a winning team at Poncey, and no one knows this better than Frank himself.

There will be some familiar faces on the 1919 Crackers. There will also be a scattering of newer and younger blood, and the contesting for places on the team is to be the liveliest that it has ever been.

COMMERCIAL HIGH DEFEATS PEACOCK

In a fast and furious game on Pryor street court Peacock school bowed to the superior playing of the Commercial High school tossers, 22 to 16. Although Peacock's players again and again tried to forge ahead, Commercial Hi was the first to score and always managed to lead until the final whistle.

One of the features of the game was the shooting of Willie Goldstein and Louis Rosenberg. Captain Mott distinguished himself.

Sands, of Commercial, also rung in two field goals, though he only played part of the game. The guarding of Allen, Ashton and Balser for Commercial was noteworthy.

LeCraw, of Peacock, was practically the whole team, though Ethridge prevented Commercial from running up a higher score. Gershon and Holloman, Peacock's forwards, played well.

The game was very cleanly played, only six fouls being called in all.

The Line-Up.

Commercial (22)		Peacock (16)
Sands (4)	C.	Holloman (2)
Mott (4)	R. F.	Gershon (4)

Balser (4)	L. G.	Ethridge (0)
Goldstein (4)	R. G.	Bush (0)

Substitutes, Allen, C. (2); Ashton (0).

GIRLS' FIVE MATCH GAMES POSTPONED

The girls' five basketball league games have been postponed until February 1, the match game that was to have been played at Wesley Memorial court, Saturday night, being called off.

The annual potato crop of the United States is around 400,000,000 bushels. Government statistics show that of this at least 75,000,000 bushels are lost. This wastage is due to the culls, rotting and freezing of potatoes in shipment, and the lack of nearby markets.

S. is one blood remedy that has for more than fifty years been giving relief to even the most aggravated and stubborn cases of Rheumatism. It cleanses and purifies the blood by routing out all traces of disease. The experience of others who have taken S. S. S. will convince you that it will promptly reach your case. Government at Berlin Is Determined to Fight Spartacans to Decision

At Last Reports Loyal Troops Were Making Desperate Efforts to Oust "Reds" From the Newspaper Plants.

Paris, January 10.—(Havas, Berlin.)—The latest news received from Berlin indicates that the government forces have widened the barred zones inside the city and succeeded in effecting a junction between the troops coming from the provinces and those already in the city.

Berlin, January 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Determined attacks by the government forces on the plants of The Tageblatt and The Vossische Zeitung, which are still in the hands of the Spartacans, have been going on with short intervals of inaction since noon today.

The machine gun firing in the newspaper quarter is almost continuous, and the adjacent streets are not open to traffic, either because they have been closed by military posts or because bullets render them unsafe.

The government has a large number of troops in readiness, and the attacks seem likely to continue to a decision.

Fighting Quieting Down.

The Wolff Bureau offices were the scene of a short combat during the night. The plant of The Vorwaerts in being carefully guarded by the extremists. Scattered shots have fallen about the building during the day, but no attack has as yet been made on it.

With the exception of the fighting just described, the city has been quieter than on any day since Sunday.

The followers of Dr. Karl Liebknecht have issued their Red Flag from a private plant. The edition contains the following, addressed to the readers of the sheet:

'The bourgeois and majority socialist newspapers in a number of places have been closed or changed into organs of the revolution proletariat, which realizes that the powerful agitation and propaganda agency which the bourgeois has possessed in its press must be paralyzed or taken from it."

Press Optimistic.

For their part, the Liebknecht followers now are carrying on a violent propaganda against "civil warfare." They announce emphatically their detestation of blood-letting and declare that upon the government will rest the responsibility for all future casualties. Their newspapers denounce the members of the government as "assassins," and declare naively that bloodshed could be prevented if the government would cease assembling troops and distributing arms.

The bourgeois newspapers, with the exception of The Tagelische Rundschau—which still refuses to believe Premier Ebert and Secretary Scheidemann will act with real decision—continues to express optimism over the situation.

There certainly has been a visible improvement of the quality of the troops posted in the main streets by the government, and scores of them with whom the correspondent conversed were found firmly determined to uphold the government and full of contempt for the methods of the Spartacans and of the fighting capacity of the Spartacan foces.

200 PERSONS KILLED IN BERLIN.

Berlin, January 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is estimated that more than 200 persons have been killed in the fighting in Berlin since Monday. The Chari'z and other hospitals cared for 300 wounded yesterday.

EBERT IN CONTROL OF INNER CITY.

Berlin, Thursday, January 9.—5:30 P. M.—(By the Associated Press.)—The government forces are in complete control of that section of the inner city between the Brandenburg gate and Friedrickstrasse. It has issued an order prohibiting all processions.

The government has scored a decided victory in the capture of police headquarters, which has been one of the Spartacan strongholds. The building was taken by the Fusilier Guards after a short fight.

The government forces took the building with few casualties. Eichhorn, the Spartacan police chief, escaped, but many of his supporters were made prisoners.

In issuing its order against processions, the government gave warning that its troops have orders to fire without waiting for the Spartacans to begin, and to shoot to kill.

The Spartacans apparently are losing hope. They failed to summon a mass meeting of their supporters today, and the streets are almost deserted.

The streets of Berlin today were without even the usual small groups of disputants.

The correspondent is informed that the Berlin regiment of mounted sharpshooters is supporting the government enthusiastically, and that other troops in the city also are loyal.

STEVE JOHNSTON ACTING AS MAYOR IN KEY'S ABSENCE

While Mayor Key was away for a day's rest on a little hunting trip on Friday, Mayor Pro Tem. Steve R. Johnston was called upon for the first time in 1919 to preside over the office of the city's head. In keeping with the policy announced by Mayor Key, Mr. Johnston was at his post the entire day, looking after all matters that came up.

Mayor Key has been quoted as saying that there will be few executive sessions during his administration, and these only when the exigencies of the occasion demand it, when the public will be fully informed as to why they have been denied the privilege of attending committee or commission meetings.

The new mayor has also said that he expects to be in his office every day from 8:30 to 5, or as long thereafter as his duties may hold him, except on Saturdays.

LOWER PRICES CAUSED BY MORE PRACTICE

Money-Saving Scale in Use at the Atlanta Dental Parlors Very Popular.

The great volume of business done by the Atlanta Dental Parlors, one of the city's oldest business institutions, comes as a natural result, most obviously, of popular approval. People want the most their dollars will buy. At the Atlanta Dental Parlors patients are always sure of good, painless workmanship on their teeth whether it be filling, crowning or bridgework; they are always equally sure of being charged the lowest possible prices. No fancy prices there! Every one's teeth should be examined at least once every six months by a competent dentist. Bad health frequently comes unsuspected from diseased roots of teeth and abscesses that give absolutely no trouble or pain. But all the time the pus is running from the seat of the disease into the system, poisoning it and causing troubles for which there is no other reasonable explanation. At the Atlanta Dental Parlors you can have your teeth examined free of charge by one of the dentists. Call any time. Atlanta Dental Parlors, 19½ Peachtree street (corner of Decatur), Dr. C. A. Constantine, proprietor and in charge.—(adv.)

AMUSEMENTS.

Adelaide Thurston.

(Coming to Atlanta Theater.)

Go to see "Her Own Money," which appears at the Atlanta theater on Monday night, when it begins an engagement of three nights and Wednesday matinee. It is a rattling good comedy, clever as clever can be, played by a splendid cast headed by that charming actress, Miss Adelaide Thurston. It is brimming over with laughs and has a lesson in it that may save you the price of a trip to Reno and alimony, but its pill is so sugar-coated you won't mind taking it. This play, by Mark E. Swan, enjoyed a run of over six months at the Lyric theater, New York city. Seats are now on sale.

Four Shows Today.

(At Loew's Grand.)

Hattie Carroll and company, a troupe of daring aerial performers, presenting a startling series of death-defying gymnastics, are the headliners on an alluring bill of vaudeville being presented for the last time today at Loew's Grand theater. In addition to the Carroll offering the Grand bill is composed of four other fine acts. The picture program is headlined by the inimitable Tom Mix in "Treat 'Em Rough." There will be four vaudeville performances today, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

There is comedy galore, with plenty of other features as well, on the vaudeville bill at the Lyric theater for the last half of the week. Perhaps one of the most interesting and amusing of all the acts is that of Ben Deely and company. Then there are the Piano Movers and a number of other first-class numbers.

Handcuff King.

(At the Alpha.)

Houdini, the "Handcuff King," and famed star of vaudeville, the man who has baffled the world with his amazing feats, will appear at the Alpha theater today in "The Master Mystery," said to be one of the most startling stories ever written. The serial is unique in many ways, as it gives Houdini an opportunity to show his tricks of self-liberation before the camera. One of the most important phases of this starting picture is the fact that Houdini will do all of these tricks in what is known as an uninterrupted close-up.

ASKS DEPORTATION OF INTERNED ALIENS

Washington, January 10.—Legislation authorizing deportation of Germans and other aliens, interned during the war, was requested by Attorney General Gregory today. He sent the draft of a bill to Representative Burnett, of Alabama, chairman of the immigration committee, who at once introduced it in the house.

Deportations, by the terms of the bill, would be on the warrant of the secretary of labor, that the aliens were "undesirable residents because they had been ordered interned."

The hump of the camel is said to taste like beef, and is considered a great delicacy by the Arabs.

Street Car Agreement Means Better Service, Asserts Labor Leader

With the signing of the agreement in which officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company agreed to recognize the local union, and to permit the members of the union to wear their buttons, it was believed Friday that the long-standing dissension which has prevailed between the company and the various employees since 1916 were probably at an end. The strike of the gas employees of the Atlanta Gas Light company and the strike of the electrical workers against the company will probably be settled within the next few days, local union leaders believe.

Mr. Mahon stated Friday that he believed that both parties had entered the agreement in good faith for promoting good service through close co-operation. He further asserted:

"Officials of the company realized that it was impossible to operate a non-union road under the changed industrial conditions and new times, and their change of policy is in line with the general trend of events throughout the country.

"Opposition to trades unions is rapidly becoming a thing of the past all over the country, and employers and employees are realizing their identity of interest and the necessity for working out their mutual problems in a friendly and cooperative manner—and the order is certain to make for harmony between capital and labor and greatly improved service to the public."

Find Boy Almost Frozen.

When police entered a supposedly vacant house at No. 3 Milan street at 4 o'clock Friday morning they found Fred Trammel, a negro boy, 7 years of age, apparently freezing to death.

Fred said that his family had moved away the day before and had forgotten to take him along. He was taken to the police station, fed and given a place by the big stove, where he curled himself up and went to sleep.

Closed barely steady.

New York, January 10.—There was a heavy sharp break in the cotton market today with March contracts selling off to 26.14 or 106 points below last night's closing figures and closing at that level with the general list closing easy at a net decline of 90 to 120 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 20 points to a decline of 3 points, which was a poor response to the firm showing of Liverpool. The English market broke sharply right after the local opening, however, while there was a good deal of Liverpool selling here and prices soon weakened. The selling seemed to become more general and aggressive as prices worked lower and stop-orders were uncovered on the decline which extended to 27.70 for January and 25.01 for May in the later trading, with the general list showing net losses of about 90 to 120 points and closing at approximately the low point of the day.

There was considerable southern as well as Liverpool selling, but the greater part of the pressure was attributed to Wall street and local operators, who were supposed to be influenced by nervousness over labor conditions, the unsettled ruling of the steel market long regarded as a barometer of general trade, and the heaviness of the stock market. Private cables attributed the early advance in Liverpool to light trade buying on the higher spot basis and the break later was supposed to reflect the relatively weak opening of the New York market.

The French commission and domestic trade interests were credited with buying on the late decline, but otherwise the support was supposed to be chiefly in the way of covering shorts.

SELLING CAUSES DECLINE IN NEW ORLEANS COTTON

New Orleans, January 10.—Declines of about a cent and a half a pound were caused in cotton today by a selling movement based principally on the labor troubles reported by New York. Selling here was mainly sympathetic with the decline in the northern market. Bearish traders were aggressive and they forced much liquidation from recent buyers. Around the opening prices were advanced 17 to 25 points on over-night buying orders and the market retained something of the bullish feeling it had yesterday, but in the second hour of trading pressure was felt and it increased as the session progressed. Lowest prices were reached late in the day, when the active months were 135 to 158 points down from the topmost levels and 110 to 141 points under the close of yesterday. Last prices showed net losses of 100 to 136 points.

After the middle of the morning the market met with next to no support and although much bullish comment was heard regarding the export movement for the week which, from all ports, amounted to 134,950 bales as against 91,629 bales during the same week last year. Spots lost 25 points, which reduced middling to 30 cents. March at its lowest traded at 26 cents, closing at the bottom, a discount of $20 a bale under spots.

COTTON TURNED TO FIRMER LEVELS TOWARD MID-WEEK

New York, January 10.—After selling off to 26.00 for March at the beginning of the week, the cotton market turned firmer on reports that southern spot holders were not following the decline and further indications of improving exports.

It seemed a considerable shortage had accumulated during the decline of the previous week, and there was a recovery of about 140 points from the lowest, with March selling at 27.42 right after the holiday on Wednesday. This advance seemed to leave the market in an easier technical position, however, and there was a sharp break during today's trading under a renewal of more or less general pressure, although there was nothing in the news to indicate any material change in the spot situation. March contracts tonight closed at 26.14 compared with 27.25 at the close of the previous Friday. The late week decline was accompanied by talk of unsettled conditions as reflected in the ruling of the stock market and also in various metals. It is believed buyers of late last month had been disappointed by the failure of the demand for goods in primary markets to show any improvement right after the turn of the year, and that this has been responsible for considerable liquidation. Further rains in the south and reports that arrangements are being made to secure a supply of potash for fertilizer have also created an optimistic view of preliminary new crop prospects.

The census report, showing 10,761,278 bales ginned to January 1, compared with 10,434,852 last year, was about in line with expectations and was not considered a market factor.

It is anticipated by local brokers that the census report on supply and distribution for December will show a comparatively small domestic mill consumption as increasing curtailment of mill activity has been reported as government contracts have run out. Private cables report that the British freight allotment for February is equivalent to about 275,000 bales.

The introduction of a bill to amend the cotton futures law by Senator Smith, of South Carolina, probably helped to unsettle sentiment during the week, although the matter has not been much discussed around the ring.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, January 10.—(Special.)—Cables were better than due this morning, but our market displayed little snap at the opening, as cotton appeared to be for sale from the south. In the first hour Liverpool broke badly and their decline brought some selling into our market, which declined some 40 points rather sharply. A partial recovery was checked by further selling from the south and local liquidation which brought a decline of about a cent from yesterday's close. Selling was not in such large volume, but demand was very limited outside the buying of March, supposed to be for one of the foreign trade commissions. The strike continued in New York harbor, but while this had some effect on sentiment, rumors of labor troubles in New England had a much more unsettling influence. Local sentiment is rather pessimistic tonight, but a steadier market tomorrow would be only natural after this decline.
HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, January 10.—(Special.)—The harbor strike at this port, discouragement as to the present outlook in the dry goods trade and unsettlement in the political situation abroad caused general liquidation of contracts and some hedge selling today. On the other hand southern advices indicate that holders are still confident and will only sell on a higher market. We expect an increase in the trade buying on any further decline.

ARGENTINE LABOR TROUBLES GIVE BOOST TO CORN

Chicago, January 10.—Widespread labor troubles in Argentina, which apparently had paralyzed business in that country, rallied the corn market today from bearish effects of the removal of the United States ban on importation of Argentine corn. Prices closed unsettled, January, $1.44½, and May, $1.35¾@1.36, with the final range as a whole ½c off to 1¾c up, compared with twenty-four hours before.

Oats gained ⅜@1¼c. In provisions the outcome varied from 50c decline to a rise of 3235c.

During the first half of the day bearish sentiment dominated the corn market as a result of certainty that the United States government had cancelled all restrictions against imports from Argentina. In addition, receipts here were liberal. Subsequently, however, attention focused on the seriousness of the industrial clash in Argentina and the possibility that shipments from there might be indefinitely delayed. Hedging pressure from Argentina halted completely. A sharp bulge in prices followed, but profit-taking by longs brought about something of a reaction from the top.

Oats showed independent strength chiefly because of a material improvement of the domestic shipping demand.

Provisions swayed with corn.

CLIQUES STILL HOLDING SWAY IN STOCK MARKET

New York, January 10.—There was no essential change today from the extremely professional and restricted conditions which have thus far this year governed the daily sessions of the stock market.

The few definite developments included the December tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation, showing a decrease of substantially 750,000 tons, and a drop of call money which was in fair supply at 3¾ per cent against the week's high rate of 6 per cent.

An index to the market's superficial character is afforded by the list of today's most active issues. In addition to United States Steel, which represented about 20 per cent of the moderate dealings, other prominent stocks embraced the oils, sugars, minor metals and ordinarily inactive specialties.

Rails again remained in the background, the few changes being mainly at moderate concessions. The one striking feature of that division was a 70 point break in Texas Pacific Land Trust on a sale of a full lot at 250.

United States Steel was under pressure, but regained all but a fraction of its loss at the close, when oils and other favorites were at minimum quotations. Coppers, sugars and prominent food shares embraced the heavy stocks, these being partly neutralized by the strength of tobaccos, rubbers, Great Northern Ore and express issues, Studebaker also showing marked firmness.

Irregularity of the bond list was occasioned by the heaviness of internationals, particularly the French flotations, and another setback for tractions, which dropped on the refusal of the local authorities to grant increased fares. Liberty bonds also displayed reactionary tendencies. Total sales, par value, aggregated $7,775,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

UNFILLED ORDERS STEEL 7,379,152 TONS

New York, January 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation on December 31 were 7,379,152 tons according to the corporation's monthly statement issued today. This is a decrease of 745,511 tons compared with the orders on November 30.

HESITATION AND CAUTION PREVAILS, DUN'S WILL SAY

New York, January 10.—Dun's tomorrow will say: With the country passing through the readjustment stages, after an era of artificial stimulus, it is not illogical to look for signs of hesitation and caution. That such evidences are plainly discernible, is not a symptom of weakness nor an indication of dwindling confidence, but is merely a demonstration that natural forces are again coming into operation. If business has halted perceptibly, following a period of unexampled expansion, the check is only one that might have been expected under the new conditions now present, and in its broadest aspects, is not an unwholesome tendency. The fact is that the inevitable economic transformation is proceeding the more smoothly and will be the more quickly completed, because of the disposition in many quarters to act prudently while great fundamental changes are in motion and to await a clearer determination of the various problems of reconstruction. Among these, the question of prices is one which compels thoughtful attention and that about all markets are no longer under the domination of sellers shows in what direction the pendulum is swinging.

Coffee.

New York, January 10.—There was a further decline in the market for coffee futures today owing to reports of a continued easier tone in the cost and freight situation, and the absence of any important demand. The opening was 5 points lower under overnight selling orders, and after some little irregularity the market weakened during the afternoon under scattered selling from Wall street and local sources. May broke to 14.00 and December to 13.60, or 25 to 30 points net lower, and the close was within a few points of the lowest at a net loss of 22 to 30 points. Closing bids: May, 14.05; July, 13.85; September, 13.75; October, 13.72; December, 13.63; January, 13.58.

The spot market was nominal at 16 for Rio 7s and 21½c for Santos 4s. Sales of Santos 4s were reported in the cost and freight market at 18.95 to 19.00, steamer shipment, London credits, which was said to be at a decline of about 3c from the recent top prices.

Sugar.

New York, January 10.—The local raw sugar market was steady and unchanged at 7.28 for centrifugal to the refiners. There were purchasers of 214,000 bags of Cuban, January shipment, and 1,500 Porto Rico afloat.

In refined there was only a fair inquiry, but considerable apprehension was felt by refiners lest the harbor strike continue and cause some delay in the arrivals of raw sugar. Most of the refiners are already behind on orders and their supplies of raw sugar are none too big, so that if arrivals are delayed they will have to close down their refineries. The zoning system, which prohibited North Atlantic refiners from selling west of Buffalo and Pittsburg, has been removed by the United States food administration. Prices are unchanged at 9 cents for fine granulated.

quacy of provisions in the joint resolution for compensation for the seized lines, and the claim that Mr. Burleson was "partial" and was seeking to bring about government ownership of the lines, the court said:

Allegations Irrelevant.

"The allegations touching the partiality of defendant, Burleson, are irrelevant. He will not make the preliminary estimates of the compensation due, but the president, who has not even deputed the defendant to act for him. Even had he done so, the final decision rests with him. But the whole question is irrelevant in any case because of the resort given to the court of claims."

Following the rendering of the decision, William J. Deegan, secretary of the Mackay companies, issued a statement announcing that an appeal would be taken at once.

"There is one phase of the decision, however, which is exceedingly gratifying," he said. "We allege in our bill of complaint that the delegation of authority by the president to Burleson was illegal. The court practically sustains that position, and that, applied to our land line system, knocks out the award of compensation of $1,680,000 which Burleson gave us, although we earned $4,269,000.

"This award was made by Burleson alone and not at all by the president, so this decision by Judge Hand would appear to invalidate it."

Tribute to Roosevelt.

After representatives from every state had delivered addresses on the death of Roosevelt the committee by a rising vote adopted the following resolutions presented by National Committeeman King:

"The republican party mourns the passing of Theodore Roosevelt. In an hour of difficulty and danger, he has fallen like a warrior in battle, leaving a place in national and international leadership which can not be filled.

"The truest tribute it is possible to pay his memory is in the pledge that his party, the republican party, shall remain true to the ideals of Americanism and of special advancement with which his name will forever be linked and for which throughout his useful career he struggled with such heroic and inspiring ardor and devotion.

"History will write his name high on the roll of those who, not only of this nation, but of all the modern world, wrought greatly in humanity's behalf.

"Under the leadership of Abraham Lincoln, the republican party proved its loyalty to the nation when charged with the full responsibility of government in a supreme crisis in the life of the republic.

"Under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, the republican party in a world crisis, proved that as a party out of power it could rise to the same high level of devoted service and by its patriotic course insure complete national unity & support of the country's cause.

"Above all others, as the European war came on, his virile voice was heard, arousing Americans to a sense of their duty and their peril, and to the imperative necessity of subordinating every other consideration in both public and private life to the one purpose of achieving by victory a just and enduring peace.

"With all his limitless energy and dauntless courage, his far-reaching vision, his genius for organization and leadership, his tremendous force of thought and gifts of expression, with his breadth of human interest and human sympathies, and his remarkable range of personal attainments, the quality in Theodore Roosevelt which most ennobles a life crowded with high achievement, is, that like his great prototypes in the presidency, Washington and Lincoln, he was ready to lay his all, his own life and the lives of those dearer to him, upon the altar of self-sacrifice.

"All he had to give he gave to his country. His gospel of Americanism is today the heritage of his countrymen.

"His message to all patriots, could he but speak, would be, regardless of the new made gap in the ranks, 'Carry on, carry on!'

"Therefore, in the spirit of Washington and Lincoln and Roosevelt, the republican party will go forward, ever forward, that the cause of liberty, fraternity and American nationalty may be advanced and 'government by the people, of the people, for the people' may not perish from the earth."

believed to be fatal. The machine was damaged.

The driver of the other car, a civilian, is said to have extricated his machine from the car into which he had collided, and, reversing into the roadway, sped toward the city without further delay.

According to Hiosisowtz, Gordon and H. G. Gordon, of 69-A Capitol avenue, another occupant of the Hiossisowtz machine, they were headed for Camp Gordon when, at "Dead Man's Curve," the incoming auto crashed into them.

The police are seeking the driver of the Gordon machine.

AUTO AND TROLLEY CRASH.

Policeman F. T. Roberts and three other occupants of his automobile narrowly escaped serious injuries Friday morning when the car was struck by a Stewart avenue trolley near the corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets. Riding with Policeman Roberts were his wife and two friends.

Roberts says he yelled at the motorman, who was looking in another direction, but he did not pay any attention to him, and did not see the automobile until after the trolley car had struck it. The automobile was damaged considerably. So far no case has been made against the motorman.

LITTLE GIRL INJURED.

Playing in front of her home, 41 Stewart avenue, little Jeanette Smith, the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith, was knocked down by a motor truck last night and has been removed to Grady hospital.

The truck was said by the police to have been a government machine. The girl, not seeing the auto, started to dart across the street, when she was bowled aside.

Her injuries are confined to lacerations and bruises about the head and limbs.

STREET CAR HITS CRIPPLE.

Frank Kelly, a one-legged cripple, aged 61 years, was struck by a trolley car as he crossed Houston street at Ivy late last night, and was carried to Grady hospital.

Adair Looks for Building Activity to Follow Removal of Restrictions

All governmental restrictions as to building have been removed. In view of the fact that every house in the city is occupied, these results may be expected:

1. Resumption of building as soon as the winter season is over and materials can be assembled.
2. A demand for building lots and a ready sale for those that are located in good residential sections.

We are prepared to show building lots in all sections of the city, and especially in the high-class residential additions.
